BRITISH PLEAD POVERTY; ASK MORE U.S. HELP

Raw Materials and Food Wanted

How to Pay Debt

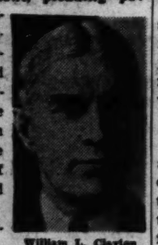
Washington, D. C., Aug. 19 (AP)—American diplomatic and financial officials were jolted today by an unofficial London proposal to reduce British debts by half, pay 50 cents on the remaining dollar—with United States money—and give IOUs for the rest.

The suggestion was advanced yesterday by the London Economist, an influential financial publication. The Economist figured on 6 billion dollars as a virtual grant from this country to make the "cash" payment.

It said that for such a sum "clearly there could be only one source—the United States."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19—The British government, pleading poverty, is negotiating for a continuation of shipments of food and raw materials from the United States on credit after the termination of lend-lease slated for next week.



William L. Clayton

William L. Clayton, assistant secretary of state, is in London, it was learned today, going over the British accounts and listening to the British arguments for American assistance to save England from bankruptcy. The British estimate they will need about 1 billion dollars' worth of food and other supplies a year for not less than three nor more than six years to put them on their feet.

Eight Billions Now Due

President Truman has ordered the discontinuance of lend-lease next week as no longer necessary or justified since the war in both Europe and the Pacific has come to an end. Great Britain has received nearly 10 billion dollars of lend-lease goods and has furnished about 2 billions in reverse lend-lease. There is no expectation on either side that the 8 billion dollar balance due the United States ever will be paid.

[A dispatch last night from London said British circles reportedly were undismayed by the prospect of the termination of lend-lease. They said they expect lend-lease will be replaced by long term credits up to 50 years so it will not be necessary for Britain to send gold abroad to buy material. Even payment of these credits, it was said, might be, in peace time, the basis of favorable trade agreements and transport operating privileges allowing Britain to write off the bulk of its debts without spending cash. America is said to be willing to engage in such a barter deal possibly for 20 years because it does not want to build up a huge store of gold as it did after the World war.]

Owes 15 Billions

The British say they are ending the war burdened with foreign debt, with their export trade ruined, and their foreign investment income reduced to a fraction of its former

Peace Time Jobless to Jam USES

USES Offices

United States employment service offices in Chicago are at the following locations: 308 N. Michigan av., 654 W. North av., 5306 Lawrence av., 4556 Kenmore av., 4207 Armitage av., 4812 W. Madison st., 817 W. Exchange st., 6321 S. Ashland av., 751 E. 63d st., 8657 Commercial av., 4711 South Park way, and 56 E. 110th st. There also are offices in Cicero, Evanston, Oak Park, Aurora, Chicago Heights, Elgin, Harvey, Joliet, La Grange, Waukegan, and Wheaton. The offices are open from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Monday thru Friday and from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Saturday.

An estimated 18,000 to 20,000 discharged war workers are expected to jam into the offices of the United States employment service today seeking new jobs or to make application for unemployment compensation.

The flood of workers will more than quadruple the normal day's business for the USES. The offices, a government official said, have augmented their staffs and are prepared to process nearly all workers who make application.

A jam, however, may result, he said, because of the unusually large number of workers expected to apply after receiving their discharge notices in Friday and Saturday envelopes.

Cancellations Pour In

Altho a great many plants were shut down yesterday, government cancellations continued to pour into the city. The USES offices also faced the difficulty of cutbacks coming so fast their information on job openings was outdated overnight.

An official of the war man power commission, however, took an optimistic view toward the average worker's chance to find an immediate job.

Altho lay-offs will throw an estimated 80 per cent of Chicago's 515,000 war workers out of jobs, the official pointed out that a great many business and industrial concerns have been operating with below normal staffs.

Picture to Become Clearer

These industries and businesses, such as liquor concerns, restaurants, retail stores, and mail order houses, were not connected directly with war production and therefore were unclassified in the WMC's war time labor pool. This meant they were at the bottom of the list in labor priorities and have been unable to obtain help since the war labor controls went into effect.

Altho it is impossible at present to estimate the number of such jobs available, the official said, within a few days the picture of labor demand and supply will become clearer.

Meanwhile, the United States civil service commission announced that about 5,000 federal jobs are now available for honorably discharged veterans in this area.

Some Agencies Expanding

The jobs, Joseph A. Connor, regional director, said, range from common labor to executive positions paying as high as $5,600 a year. While a number of war agencies are in the process of liquidation, he pointed out, others such as the veterans' administration, the service hospitals, and the surplus properties agencies are expanding.

The regulation limiting new employment in the civil service to veterans went into effect last Friday.

The National Association of Personnel Directors also announced that 153 Chicago firms have listed 2,577 jobs for returning service men with its employment agency. The association, which is located at 1 N. La Salle st., provides a counseling service for veterans who wish assistance in determining their abilities.

HARD DAYS AHEAD FOR THE ASHAMED AMERICANS

Saved Norse, Quisling Plea at Trial Today

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 19—Vidkun Quisling tomorrow is expected to tell of the international intrigue leading to World War II. From his background of participation in the diplomatic bickering he is expected to interpret present European unrest as a case of the Nazis being replaced by the Communists as a challenge to Great Britain's influence on the continent.

Quisling is to address the special court in his own defense against charges, including treason, which carry the death penalty.

Quisling, a 200 pound six footer, is not cringing in his cell in the 12th century tower overlooking the Oslo fjord. He has written a 21,000 word treatise defending his acts as being in the interest of Norway. He says they were in the interest of the Norwegian policy of armed neutrality which he advocated before hostilities, and in the interest of Norwegian independence and welfare which he contends he championed while heading the civil government here during the five years German military occupation.

Quisling Denies Charges

The prosecution contends that Quisling's relations with Berlin were coöperative, part of the Hitler plot for continental conquest. The allied crimes commission has been seeking to link him with evidence of collusion with high Nazis awaiting trial before an allied tribunal.

Quisling denies these allegations. He also denies the authority of the government, including the king and the crown prince, to enact laws from refuge in London. He attacks the underground leaders for "disturbing the civil relation with the German military occupation" by sabotage and slayings.

The defendant has said he was dealing with Great Britain as well as with Hitler before the war and that his motives were purely to preserve peace and to safeguard Norway's future in the event of war.

He "Saved Norway"

Quisling believes that he ameliorated the hardships of the occupation and placed Norway in a favorable position should Hitler have won the war.

Quisling outlined his philosophy at his preliminary hearing last May, and then was promised this opportunity to elaborate upon his contention that, as he then said, he "saved Norway from the fate of Poland."

The trial is to open with an address by the prosecution reciting the charges previously publicized when the 7,000 word indictment was filed with the court several weeks ago. More than 100 newspaper men and photographers expect the news of the day to come from the defendant.

The spectators will also include representatives of the allied war crimes commission alert for information which might be used against the nazi bigwigs next month in Berlin and Nuernberg.

The trial is scheduled to last eight to 10 days.

SEABEES IN PACIFIC TAKE THE CAKE IN CELEBRATING VICTORY

OKINAWA, Aug. 19 (AP)—The biggest cake ever baked in the Pacific, a 600 pound, pink-frosted, 32 layer Hollywoodian spectacle topped by a sugared "V-J," was turned out today by the cooks of a special Seabee battalion. Unveiled by a whisk of its mosquito netting tent, it fed nearly 2,000 men at a Victory party today.

The Seabees stinted their desserts for a week to provide the cake's 1,200 eggs, 100 pounds of butter, 150 pounds of sugar, 150 pounds of flour, five gallons of milk, pound of salt, quart of vanilla, two pounds of baking powder, and the 90 pounds of jam for filling between layers.

'Daddy' Turns Fire Hose on 200 Converts

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 19 (AP)—White robed Sweet Daddy Grace publicly baptized with a fire hose more than 200 converts to his House of Prayer today and then turned to the urgent matter of "getting this peace straightened out."

The Negro preacher, self-styled "Bishop Charles M. Grace," told more than 1,500 members of his cult: "I got to get this peace straightened out real soon and I'll need plenty of money for it."

The crowd shouted: "Amen, Sweet Daddy, it's waiting for you."

He'll Tackle Japs

Daddy Grace, atop a six foot platform outside the church, said: "I did a good job straightenin' them Romans years ago, but I ain't seen such people as these Japs. Gonna take a lot of money, precious lambs, to keep them in line."

Delegates attending the 19th annual holy convocation of the House of Prayer jammed the building and hung from the windows.

One shouted: "I got 100 bucks for you to do the job with, Sweet Daddy."

A 22 Minute Shower

The white robed baptismal candidates filed out of the church and the water showered down for 22 minutes as the "world famous last gospel band" played "Anchors Aweigh."

The fire hose once was directed to the sidewalk for the benefit of onlookers. They ran screaming into the street.

After the ceremonies Daddy Grace departed in his long, sleek limousine with "Official" painted in gilt letters on the door.

75 POINT YANKS TO COME HOME AS SHIPS PERMIT

LONDON, Aug. 20 [Monday] (AP)—Stars and Stripes said in a Paris dispatch today that the war department had authorized Gen. Eisenhower to send veterans with 75 or more points home in numbers sufficient to fill shipping quotas.

"Whether 75-point men upon their return home will be discharged along with 85-pointers could not be learned, but the feeling was that while these men might not get their discharges immediately, they would not have very long to wait," the army newspaper said.

[The war department declined comment last night on London reports that soldiers with 75 or more points will be sent home from Europe.]

GENERAL'S AIDES RECEIVE ENVOYS; PLAN OCCUPATION IN TWO SESSIONS

9 Teams Risk Lives to Drop on Foe's Prison Camps

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 19 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, gallant 61 year old hero of Corregidor, has been found safe and well by a rescue team of Americans who parachuted deep into Japanese territory in Manchuria, it was announced today.

Maj. Gen. G. M. Parker

In addition to Wainwright hundreds of other American prisoners of war were located by nine six-man teams undertaking dangerous missions into Japanese areas in Manchuria and northern China.

Maj. Gen. George M. Parker, jr., of Portland, Ore., who served under Wainwright in the final defense of the Philippines, was among those found.

Report Devereux Found

Pandemonium broke loose at each camp as the so-called "humanitarian" teams dropped from the skies, said Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, United States commander in China.

Wainwright, who led the last stand in the Philippines in April and May, 1942, will be brought to Chungking within a day or two, and the other American prisoners of war will be moved as rapidly as possible to port cities for return to the United States.

Wedemeyer said he had not yet been informed whether Lt. Col. James Devereux, commander of the heroic marines on Wake Island in 1942, had been located, as reported by the Chungking radio.

May Witness Surrender

Wainwright, whose defense of Corregidor was labelled by the late President Roosevelt as "the living symbol of our war aims," had been a Japanese prisoner three years, three months and 10 days when the parachutists dropped at the prisoner of war camp at Hsian, 100 miles northwest of Mukden, on Aug. 16. This territory since has been occupied by the Russians.

Wainwright was found "all right," a statement from Wedemeyer said. If he gets back in time, Wainwright may have the personal satisfaction of returning to Manila to witness the formal surrender of the Japanese.

When Wainwright comes to Chungking, he will stay with Wedemeyer in the American commander's residence overlooking the Kialing river. There some of the luxuries so long denied him will be available—warm tub baths; a good bed with clean sheets; good, plentiful food; iced drinks, and other comforts.

With Wainwright in the Sian camp was the governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, A. W. L. Tjarda Van Starkenborgh Stachouwer. He will be brought back immediately at the request of

LONDON DAILY VOICES OPPOSITION TO U. S. BASES IN PACIFIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 20 [Monday]—Opposition to the American house naval affairs committee's proposal that the United States retain bases whereby it might dominate the Pacific was voiced in today's Daily Sketch. Editorially it said: "In this country we welcome all measures which are likely to make for lasting peace in the orient, but doubt this suggestion would serve that end. The British empire has a very big stake and responsibility in the far east, especially as far as Australasia is concerned. In any future arrangements as to the control of the Pacific the people of Australia, New Zealand, and the empire in general are entitled to have their say."

EMISSARIES GET FORMAL SALUTE AND A BRUSH-OFF

BY JOSEPH HEARST AND DONALD STARR

(Pictures on page 2 and back page)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, Aug. 19—The Japanese delegation that will receive surrender terms from Gen. MacArthur arrived this evening to step into a reception that was coldly formal. Lt. Gen. Takashiro Kawabe led the 16 man delegation down the steps of the C-54 army transport plane that carried them from Ie Island.

Within a few minutes after the plane, piloted by Col. Earl T. Ricks, Hot Springs, Ark., landed at Nichols field at 7:54 p. m., the Japanese delegates had been put into seven staff cars with 12 members of the American party and were en route to the six room house they will occupy while here.

Brushes Off Handshake

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby headed the American party and Col. S. F. Mashbir was official interpreter. Mashbir, an expert linguist, had the job of greeting Gen. Kawabe when he alighted. The two men saluted and said something in Japanese. They saluted again.

Then Kawabe shot out his right hand. Mashbir automatically put out his hand but just barely touched the Japanese hand. Kawabe seemed unperturbed by the brush-off. He bobbed slightly from the waist and advanced a few steps toward Willoughby. Both men saluted, but that was all.

The Japanese with two civilian exceptions were dressed in green uniforms and most of them carried swords. Kawabe's sword bobbed about his short legs.

GIs Are Amused

The appearance of the Japanese seemed to amuse the hundreds of GIs who swarmed around the field and made wisecracks about "the little guys" they had been fighting.

As the Jap delegates were put into army staff cars it fell to the lot of four of them to have to ride with two Nisei, Lieutenants Kayano and Imada of the army's interpreter and interrogation staff.

The Japs were quartered in a house owned by F. H. Stevens, an American.

Fifteen of the Japanese were in high spirits during their flight from Ie Island, but Gen. Kawabe maintained a dour attitude thruout the four hour 30 minute journey, according to members of the crew of the C-54.

The general only nibbled at one of the sandwiches from a box lunch given to each of them during the hop and while the others were asking for seconds of pineapple juice he was satisfied with half his first glass.

Jap Has Big U. S. Bills

Col. Ricks said he received no special instructions on leaving Ie Island except for an order from Brig. Gen. Frederic Smith, commander of the 5th fighter command, to fly low over Okinawa to give the Japanese a chance to see how the landscape had been changed.

They spoke no English while on the plane except to repeat their requests for more pineapple juice which they consumed with relish. Included in the crew was Lt. Warren Munzenmeyer, Pasadena, Cal., who acted as interpreter. After they had eaten, one of the civilian members of the party asked Munzenmeyer who once lived in Tokyo, whether he might tip the steward and the latter was surprised when the Japanese pulled out a large roll of American currency of $50 and $100 demoninations. He was told that he could not offer a tip.

After entering the plane all the Japs except sour visaged, 5 foot Kawabe removed their coats and shoes.

Thirty minutes before landing on Nichols field the Japanese were given the usual warning and immediately replaced their shoes and coats. As they debarked according to rank, the senior army officers were even wearing spurs.

Mission Questioned About Air Fields for Americans

PICTURES OF ARRIVAL
Pictures of arrival of Japanese delegation in Manila to arrange for surrender appear on the back page.

MANILA, Aug. 20 [Monday]—Japan's surrender envoys, questioned for more than five hours last night by Gen. MacArthur's aides, returned to the conference table at 10:30 this morning amid evidence that they will not be dignified by a personal meeting with the allied supreme commander.

MacArthur is extremely unlikely to meet the Japanese emissaries personally, even tho the conference chamber is directly over his office. This morning the Japanese were brought in, pointedly, 12 minutes after MacArthur had entered his office and closed the door. Six of his aides conducted the negotiations.

The consistent American tone of firm reserve, dominating the formalities, appears to confirm that the general will not receive Tokyo's comparatively low ranking "military messenger boys."

Treated with Stiff Courtesy

The Japanese, looking a bit haggard from the fast pace of the 24 hours since they left Tokyo, were driven to the combat battered Manila city hall in a rainstorm. As upon their arrival late yesterday and on every contact with the Americans since, they were treated with stiff military courtesy without a vestige of friendliness.

From the American attitude it was obvious that they would be sent home as quickly as the necessary business has been concluded. There was an unexplained delay this morning, however. The conference, scheduled for 9:30 a. m., did not start until 10:30, due to what was described as a "change in arrangements."

Yanks Stand in Rain

Hundreds of American soldiers and Filipinos stood an hour in the drenching rain to see the six car convoy pull up at the city hall.

The surrender delegates, required to check their Samurai swords at the door, were interrogated at length in the first meeting concerning airports and other facilities for the triumphant American entry into Japan.

[A report that the Russian delegates to the surrender conference would arrive in Manila Monday night was broadcast by the American Broadcasting company, which said this indicated the meetings would continue at least beyond that time, so they could attend.]

Questioned About Airport

There was no word from the conference room of the subject under discussion at the second session this morning.

The envoys, who arrived by air at 5:56 p. m., yesterday were allowed to go to bed about 3 a. m. after more than five hours of discussion.

After the Japanese presented credentials and gave information which Tokyo had prescribed, they were questioned closely about airports and other facilities which MacArthur will need when he makes his triumphant entry into Japan.

Recess for Coffee

The meeting began three hours before midnight and at 2 a. m. a recess was called while the envoys and the Americans had coffee and sandwiches. A half hour later the conferees broke up.

Lt. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff, was handling the preliminary conferences across a long black table.

Top ranking Japanese was Lt. Gen. Takashiro Kawabe, vice chief of the imperial general staff, who headed a 16-man delegation.

Sutherland maintained the cool atmosphere that had prevailed since the transport plane bearing the Japanese party arrived at Nichols field yesterday. When he received Kawabe's credentials in his office his face was hard, and he acknowledged the general's bow with a curt nod.

From Sutherland's office the party went to the conference room, where the Japanese gave information brought from Tokyo and began answering questions.

Six Japanese emissaries and six Americans participated in the first deliberations. The United States navy was represented by Rear Adm. Forest P. Sherman, assistant chief of staff for planning in the Pacific.

Sirens Howl

Besides Sutherland, other army officers were Maj. Gen. Stephen J. Chamberlin, assistant chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's intelligence officer; Maj. Gen. Lester J. Whitlock, MacArthur's supply officer, and Brig. Gen. Donald R. Hutchinson, chief of staff of the far east air forces.

Willoughby escorted the Japanese to the city hall, wrecked in the battle of Manila but since patched up for use as general headquarters. Escort sirens howled as the cavalcade reached the city hall, where a crowd of soldiers waited. The soldiers shouted at the sound of the sirens, then fell silent as the sedans drew up and the Japanese stepped out.

The Japanese, still grim, walked up the wide staircase past the trim American guards armed with carbines or 45s.

MacArthur remained in his office until after the Japanese arrived at Nichols field. An hour later, MacArthur's office was empty.

The entire journey, once the Japanese landed yesterday in two of their own planes at Ie Island, west of Okinawa, after a flight of five hours 27 minutes from Tokyo, was handled with the same businesslike dispatch expected to characterize MacArthur's conversations with the emissaries.

Kawabe was uderstood not to be a member of the Kwantung army clique. Unofficially, it was said MacArthur would have refused to accept as a representative any member of the Kwantung element.

Here Are the Japs

Other members of the Japanese delegation were:

Rear Adm. Ichiro Yokoyama of the navy general staff; Col. Yoshimasa Torai, member of the army general staff; Maj. Gen. Morikazu Amano, chief of the first section, army general staff; Morio Yukawa, secretary of the foreign office, who wore shorts, a brown sack English style coat, and an open white shirt; Katsuo Okazaki, chief of the research division, foreign office; Col. Arata Yamoto, chief of the sixth section, army general staff; Lt. Col. Masao Matsuda, army air force general staff; Lt. Col. Kyoshi Minami, military affairs bureau, general staff; Lt. Col. Mamoru Takakura, member of the military affairs bureau; 2d Lt. Sadao Ohtake, sixth section; 2d Lt. Harumi Takeuchi, sixth section; Capt. Toshiichi Omaye, navy general staff; Capt. Hidami Yoshida, military affairs, navy; Kazuma Sugita, secretary to the minister of the navy, and Shuichi Mizota, secretary to the delegation.

As the Japanese filed past, not a muscle moved in the faces of the American guards, altho most of them were combat infantrymen and many had participated in the battle of Manila.

Japs Remove Swords

Under instruction, the Japanese removed their swords and caps before entering Sutherland's office on the second floor, a few paces from MacArthur's darkened office.

The only two prominent decorations in the conference room, where the main session was held, were a series of large-scale maps of the war areas and a wall trophy called the "Southwest Pacific Ladder," recording the successive victories of MacArthur's command.

The trophy was a carved eagle, from whose claws 30 bars dangled like those on a marksmanship medal. Each bar bore the name and date of a victory, from Milne bay, where MacArthur turned back the Japanese tide Aug. 25, 1942, at the doorstep to Australia, to Tarakan in the Borneo campaign, May 1, 1945.

Chamberlin, who prepared the trophy, apparently had been too busy to supply the bars for subsequent victories.

A military police force of 26 men, all six footers who have served Gen. MacArthur thruout many important war conferences, acted as a guard around the conference headquarters. Its members include S/Sgt. Elmer J. Vopal, Milwaukee, Wis.; Corp. Helmer Olsen, Prairie Farm, Wis., and Pvt. Robert G. Mull, 318 North Circle ave., Chicago.

Just Jap Errand Boys

The Japanese indicated they considered the Manila mission a military errand boy's trip by sending relatively low ranking officials. This coincides with the American viewpoint that their sole purpose is to accept Gen. MacArthur's demand without quibbling.

The situation is a decided contrast to the first surrender meeting of more than three years ago. Then the Japanese were on top. Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the American commander, met Japanese Gen. Homma in front of a small school house on Bataan. With loud mouthed arrogance, Homma stomped away from the meeting when Wainwright said he was not empowered to speak for all American forces in the Philippines.

"I refuse to meet anyone below my rank," Homma said. "Come back when you have that rank. Meanwhile, we will continue shelling Corregidor."

Wainwright subsequently met him with more authority.

British Army of Million in Peace Time Foreseen

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Press Association's military correspondent said today that military circles believe the British empire for several years must maintain a peace time army of 1,000,000. The pre-war regular army numbered between 150,000 and 200,000.

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 19 (Reuters)—Switzerland celebrated peace today with ceremonial parades to mark the demobilization of her army.

BRITISH FLEET LIKELY TO JOIN TOKYO BAY LINE

ABOARD THE BRITISH BATTLESHIP DUKE OF YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Adm. Halsey conferred aboard this ship today with the commander of the British Pacific fleet, presumably on plans for steaming into Tokyo bay in the occupation of Japan. There was no disclosure of what Halsey talked over with Adm. Bruce Fraser but later the commander of the United States 3d fleet said in a broadcast that the impending occupation was one of the coordinated jobs remaining for the allies.

It seemed obvious that since this flagship of the British admiral has arrived in this area—described by Halsey as 300 miles from Tokyo—the British intend to have their war ships in the line that rides into Tokyo bay.

Both Halsey and Vice. Adm. John S. McCain, commander of the 3d fleet's carrier task force, transferred from their flagships to destroyers and thence by breeches buoy to the Duke of York for the conferences, in which members of their staffs also participated.

Gen. Keitel Admits Hitler Was Bluffing at Munich

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Paris radio tonight said that Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, former chief of the German high command, had admitted Germany was bluffing at the Munich conference in 1938, and would not have attacked Czechoslovakia if Britain and France had called the bluff. "We were not very strong militarily," the broadcast quoted Keitel as saying.

JAPS IN CHINA ACCEPT CHIANG'S SURRENDER PLAN

CHUNGKING, Aug. 20 [Monday] —(AP)—The Japanese army in China accepted today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's arrangements for a formal surrender.

Japanese Gen. Yasuji Okamura told Chiang by radio that his surrender envoys would go to Chihkiang in western Hunan province tomorrow, complying fully with his instructions, to receive orders from Gen. Ho Ying-chin, commander of China's field forces.

With formal peace near in the eight year old Sino-Japanese war, the commander of China's Communist forces, Gen. Chu Teh, told Chiang earlier today he must act immediately to avert "a grave threat" of civil war between Communist and government forces.

Report Guerrilla Move

His defiant note, asserting that 260,000,000 Chinese were "dissatisfied" with Chiang's regime, coincided with foreign reports reaching Chungking that 20,000 to 30,000 Communist guerrillas were converging on the Yangtze river port of Wuhu in possible preparation for a 60 mile drive downstream to Nanking, which is to be the seat of Chiang's new government.

Telegraphing a series of six demands to Chiang, the Communist general warned the government leader to heed them and insisted on full Communist participation in the surrender of Japanese forces in China.

Chu demanded that the Communists take part in allied acceptance of Japan's formal surrender and in the peace conference. On internal issues, he demanded the abolition of what he called the government's "one party dictatorship" and called for an all-party conference to establish a "democratic coalition government."

Chungking Is Unworried

Communist forces reportedly moving on Nanking were said to be ill-armed and there was no great concern expressed in Chungking.

Sizable puppet forces in Nanking were said to have switched their allegiance from the Japanese to the Chungking government and were in a position to repel any Communist attack, government quarters said.

Chu, contending that the Communists had borne the brunt of the war against Japan and accusing Chiang of having met it "with folded arms," sent his six demands in answer to the government leader's call for talks to discuss differences. The points were:

First, Chu demanded that Chungking should consult and reach agreement with Yenan on the acceptance of Japanese and puppet troop surrenders and on any pacts and treaties concluded after the surrender.

Demand Parley Place

Second, the Communists should be given the right to accept the surrender of Japanese and puppet troops in areas under Communist control in "accordance with the terms of the Potsdam declaration." In this connection, Chu asserted that Chiang's "extremely unreasonable" order that the Communists should remain at their posts and take no action in disarming the Japanese was a pretext for Chungking to take over the enemy's arms and create the "unprecedently grave threat of civil war."

Third, the Communists should be allowed to send their own representatives to the Japanese surrender and should be permitted to participate in the post-war control of Japan.

Fourth, the Communists should have the right to take part in the peace conference and in future conferences of the united nations.

Fifth, Chu demanded that the present "one party dictatorship" be abolished, that an all-party conference be called, and that government troops around Communist areas should be withdrawn and democratic reforms instituted thruout China.

Sixth, Chiang should take steps to avoid civil war and "on this point," Chu said, "I now seriously warn you not to consider this unimportant."

Bulgarian Premier Says Election Will Be Free

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that Bulgarian Prime Minister Kimon Georgiev had announced free elections would be held Aug. 26 "despite attemps at home and abroad to secure postponement." His statement came one day after the United States had informed the Bulgarian government that it did not consider its election arrangements free from "intimidation and force."

JAPS NEGOTIATING FOR SURRENDER IN SOUTH PACIFIC AREAS

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 19 (AP)—Surrender negotiations affecting more than 20,000 Japanese troops in the Bougainville, Solomons, area and about 8,000 around Wewak in New Guinea have been started, Australian headquarters and press dispatches said today.

Wewak and Bougainville (arrows)

The Japanese surrender envoy for Lt. Gen. Kanda, commander of Nipponese troops on Bougainville, has returned to his headquarters after receiving terms from the Australian commander, Lt. Gen S. S. Savige, said news reports from the Solomons.

Australian headquarters said Japanese envoys have met with officers of the Aussie 6th division in the Wewak area and have agreed to take them to Lt. Gen. Adachi, Japanese commander in that theater.

CHICAGO YANKS ON IE ISLE ENJOY ITS BIGGEST DAY

Two Camera Men See Jap Envoys Arrive

BY ROBERT CROMIE AND ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

IE ISLAND, Aug. 19—This was Ie Island's biggest day. The tiny island probably held more men today to witness the arrival of the Japanese surrender delegation on its first hop to Manila than when first invaded.

The end of the strip on which the Jap planes landed was blocked off by barbed wire guarded by military policemen including one Chicagoan, Pvt. Morris Rudman, 5015 Kenmore av. Another Chicagoan—formerly employed with Howard Mayer of Tribune Tower—served as a courier officer flying news photographs to Manila. He is Lt. Ronald Goodman, 6403 N. Bell av.

Whether accidental or planned, the Japs managed to avoid using Gen. MacArthur's ordered identification word originally chosen. By using two planes they made two call signals necessary, adopting the words Jbacy and Jbacz. MacArthur had ordered them to use the code signal "Bataan."

Berwyn Boy Takes Picture

Today was a big day for another Chicagoland boy, Harry Knipp, 2121 Ridgeland av., Berwyn, Ill. He is a combat cameraman and has made 55 missions making air corps motion pictures, of which today's affair was to be his finale.

The crew of an alternate C-54, which stood by in case the one carrying the Jap delegation developed engine trouble, included Maj. Vincent Snyder, of Chester, Ill.

Crews of the two Jap planes were taken to a two story brick building, formerly a Japanese school, which, tho battered and roofless, is the best structure on the island. It serves as military police headquarters.

Allowed to See Island

Three tents near the building will be their quarters, one for officers and two for enlisted men. The officers will eat in the M. P. officer mess and the Jap enlisted men will eat with our enlisted men. Baked ham is tonight's dish.

Lt. Sidney Brookmeyer, New York, who will be the conducting officer for the Jap crews during their stay, said they would be given free roam of the island, altho they will be accompanied by an escort for their own protection.

Under Maj. Richard Peters, Cleveland, O., headquarters public relations officer, a special press tent was set up on the airstrip with teletype and voice broadcast facilities to San Francisco via Manila. For the 40 newsmen here the most important man is Staff Sgt. Joe Konz, 1723 Morse av., Chicago. He operates the teletype.

GLENVIEW PILOT RESCUED AFTER CRASH IN LAKE

Ensign R. J. Ganther, a pilot attached to a carrier qualification training unit at Glenview naval air station, was rescued from the lake a mile off shore and several miles south of Racine, Wis., yesterday after he made a crash landing on the water. His Mae West [life] jacket bore him up as his plane sank. A navy amphibian plane, piloted by Lt. R. J. Watkins, assistant operations officer at Glenview, picked up Ganther.

2 JAP GENERALS OFFER TO GIVE UP ON LUZON

MANILA, Aug. 19 (AP)—Surrender overtures have been made by two Japanese generals on northern Luzon Island, American 14th corps officers reported today. The overtures came as fighting in that sector quieted down to two minor Japanese attacks yesterday.

Surrender negotiations were reported under way between American officers and emissaries of Lt. Gen. Yoshiharu Iwanaka, commander of the Nipponese "Geki" force, which includes the once formidable 2d armored division. Presumably the Japanese emissaries came into the American lines.

Inquire About Surrender

Lt. Gen. Masatsogu Araki, commander of the 79th brigade of the imperial 103d infantry division, also made surrender overtures to Filipino army units under Col. Russell R. Volckman, of Clinton, Ia.

Another party consisting of a Japanese major and seven enlisted men entered the lines of a Filipino regiment yesterday to determine the truth of surrender reports. They returned to their own lines and were expected to return later with other troops.

Yamashita Still Silent

Officers of the 14th corps said they had heard nothing yet from Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander-in-chief in the Philippines. He has been variously reported as in the northern Luzon mountains and as having been flown to Japan months ago.

American flyers have dropped 775,000 surrender leaflets in the mountains and the Cagayan valley of northeastern Luzon, where scattered Japanese remnants are known to be hiding out.

Outposts of the American 32d division repulsed two light Japanese attacks yesterday in the rugged country north of Baguio. Three Nipponese were killed.

Admiral Acts Also

The 38th division received word from the east coast of Luzon that a Japanese vice admiral in that sector had sent two officers to open surrender negotiations. He acted after two Nipponese prisoners of war volunteered to take surrender news to his headquarters. They carried rice, candy, and cigarets with them.

An American Cub plane pilot switched from fragmentation bombs to surrender leaflets as he made his daily flight over one Luzon valley. He also dropped candy and cigarets and reported that within an hour the Japanese were waving white flags.

U. S. SOON TO GET POSSESSION OF F. D. R. MANSION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19 [Special]—The children and the widow of President Roosevelt are expected to relinquish at an early date their life interest in the late President's mansion at Hyde Park, N. Y., Arthur E. Demaray, associate director of the interior department's national park service, said today.

This action will add the mansion and 33 acres of ground to the government reservation at Hyde Park which now consists of the Franklin D. Roosevelt library, built by public subscription. Operation of the estate has cost approximately $50,000 a year in public funds and the interior department has estimated another $50,000 a year now will be necessary.

Demaray said the interior department plans to place the home and library on exhibition jointly at an admission cost of 40 or 50 cents.

COLLEGE HEAD QUITS GLOBAL CAMPAIGN GROUP

New York, Aug. 19 [Special]—Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, has resigned as chairman of Americans United for World Organization, Inc., in the belief that the emergency that called the group into being has passed and that political action on behalf of its aims no longer is needed, it was announced today.

Word of his resignation came simultaneously with a statement by the organization's directors that "the fight for world order" was just beginning. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former minister to Norway, has been named acting president of the organization.

The board called for action to further the aims of the allied nations charter concerning employment, economic opportunity, and political and religious freedom.

JAPS COMPLAIN ALLIED FORCES LAND IN KURILES

Ask MacArthur to Put End to Invasion

San Francisco, Cal. Aug. 19 (AP)—Japanese headquarters complained today that allied an force had landed in the Kuriles, north of the Main islands. Tokyo radio reported homeland unrest resulting from rumors that American troops had started landing in Japan "without previous notice."

In a message to Gen. MacArthur's Manila headquarters, the Japanese headquarters said Nipponese troops were "obliged to resort to arms for self-defense" when allied forces landed on Shumushu island in the Kuriles Saturday.

"Now that hostilities between both parties having been prohibited it is earnestly to be desired that the hostile actions will soon be ceased," the message said.

Report U. S. Troops Land

There was no announcement of reply by MacArthur.

[A spokesman for Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher in the Aleutians said the commander had no comment on Japanese reports of a fight on Shumushu Island. It was assumed there that no American forces were involved. It is possible that Russian forces from Kamchatka landed on the island.]

Domei, Japanese agency, broadcast a Tokyo newspaper report of rumors which said American warships "have arrived in Osaka bay or Sagami bay and United States troops have started landing."

The newspaper Mainichi said "it is very hard to prevent rumors of this sort to spread," and urged the Japanese military to "refrain from ill-considered actions and thoughtless movements."

Lift Censorship

The new cabinet decided to immediately carry out orders issued by the emperor today to lift blackout and censorship regulations in Japan, Domei said. The imperial command was given Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni during a palace audience.

Domei said Lt. Gen. Toshishiro Obata, former president of the army staff college, had been named to the new cabinet as a minister without portfolio. Obata once was military attache to the Japanese embassy at Moscow.

Quotes American Priest

Domei in another broadcast quoted an American identified as "Father Patrick Byrn, Maryknoll Catholic missionary," as asking the United States occupation forces to come to Japan "not with a feeling of animosity in your hearts but with a feeling of friendship."

The agency said the missionary had given an interview to the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, and described him as a "59-year-old American citizen" who had been living in Kyoto for 11 years and "today regards Kyota as his second home."

He was quoted as saying, "I feel confident that the Americans will live up to their right of fair play," and that he hoped to confer with Gen. MacArthur to "explain the unrest and mental struggle prevailing among the Japanese people."

Superior Explains

Maryknoll, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—Bishop James E. Walsh, superior general of the Maryknoll society, issued this statement today:

"Father Patrick Byrn of Washington, D. C., is a member of Maryknoll society, has been a missionary in Japan 12 years, was interned in Kyoto for the entire duration of the war. We have had no word from him in all this time. We do not know the state of his health, but we are rejoiced to know he is alive. We naturally share any sentiment favoring humane and constructive treatment of a defeated enemy people, but we have no way of knowing what degree of freedom he exercised in making his statements."

CHARGES SOONG OFFERED KOREA TO RED RULERS

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19—Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong was denounced today by the Korean-American council on the ground he has offered to coöperate with Dictator Stalin in securing Russian domination over Korea, a nation of 30 million people which has been battling Japanese aggression for 40 years.

It was understood Soong made the offer during a trip to Moscow before the Potsdam conference. It was to be part of his payment, according to the reports, in a deal to obtain Russian backing for a new Chinese government in which he would be the head, superseding his brother-in-law, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Soong Called Playboy

Dr. James S. Shinn, director general of the Korean-American council, charged in a statement that Soong is attempting to use Korea as a pawn to barter the restored freedom of that unfortunate nation for his personal gains. He termed the wealthy Chinese "a diplomatic playboy" and said Koreans will keep a sharp eye on any of his activities affecting the future of their country.

"We are convinced that the totalitarian power politics now being indulged in by this diplomatic playboy have neither the approval of Chiang nor the vast majority of the Chinese people," the statement said.

"We can assure Dr. Soong also that his machinations will be resisted to the limit by the Korean people, who possess a democratic government and are interested solely in its perpetuation.

"If Dr. Soong, reared in the lap of luxury and the possessor of vast wealth, thinks otherwise, his dulled socjal consciousness is due for a most rude awakening.

Object to New Chains

"The Koreans have not fought their Japanese aggressors for 40 years only to agree to a new set of chains, forged by one whose education in the great United States and consequent exposure to democracy, ill fit him for the role he now essays.

"The Chinese government and people, whose servant Soong presumably is, may be relied on to pass adequate judgment upon the activities of this traveling statesman."

Grave concern has been expressed in many quarters that Russia intends to hold Korea in its Asiatic sphere of influence thru establishment of a friendly government on the strategically located peninsula jutting toward Japan from Manchuria.

President Truman, however, is said to have insisted at the Potsdam conference that the Cairo declaration be followed in relation to Manchuria and Korea. At their meeting in 1943, the late President Roosevelt, former premier Churchill, and Chiang issued a statement calling for the return of Manchuria to China and the creation of an independent Korea.

MANCHURIA JAPS END RESISTANCE IN MOST AREAS

98,000 Surrender on 3 Main Fronts

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Japan's Kwantung army, estimated by the Russians to have numbered 1,000,000 men, has ceased resistance in most parts of Manchuria and is surrendering en masse to the Red army, Moscow said tonight.

More than 98,000 Japanese troops surrendered to the Russians on three Manchurian fronts today while soviet air borne units dropped into the cities of Mukden, Harbin, Hsinking, and Yungki [Kirin] and reported the Japanese garrisons were ready to give up.

The Japanese forces in the four key cities of Manchuria were waiting merely for Red army ground troops to enter and take over command.

The occupation of Mukden and Hsinking apparently was only a matter of hours away, since Moscow reported Russian forces were on the approaches to the cities.

24 Hours to Deadline

The wholesale capitulation in Manchuria came less than 24 hours before the expiration of the time limit at noon, Monday, set by Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, Russian far eastern commander, in an ultimatum last week to Japanese Commander in Chief Lt. Gen. Otozo Yamada.

The soviet union entered the Pacific war 10 days ago and yesterday a Russian plane flew Gen. Yamata's chief of staff to soviet headquarters for surrender talks.

The soviet war bulletin said that the three Russian armies fighting in Manchuria had ceased military operations on all sectors where the Japanese were laying down their arms and were "accepting the surrendering units and formations of the Kwantung army."

In final offensive actions, Marshal Kirill A. Meretskov's 1st far eastern army pushed up the road to Harbin from eastern Manchuria, gaining 46 miles and storming into Weiho, 100 miles southeast of the great commercial heart of Manchuria.

55,000 Japs in Stockades

Meretskov's forces took the day's greatest number of prisoners, herding 55,000 Japanese officers and men into hurriedly erected stockades.

Gen. Maxim Purkaev's 2d far eastern army occupied three Japanese strongholds northwest and north of Harbin and seized 23,000 enemy troops who laid down their arms in the Sungari river valley.

Pushing 30 miles down the Sungari river banks, Purkaev's forces captured the Japanese air base town of Sansing, 142 miles northwest of Harbin, and also swept up Lungchen, 195 miles due north.

In western Manchuria, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Trans-Baikal army accepted the surrender of 20,000 Japanese troops and neared Mukden and Hsinking in unchecked advances up to 140 miles.

Malinovsky's mop-up of western Manchuria won him the key junction city of Lungkiang [Taitsihar], 170 miles northwest of Harbin; Liaoyuan, 90 miles southwest of Hsinking, and three other big towns.

JAPANESE FIRE AT U. S. PLANES IN ASIATIC SKIES

Foe Still Fighting in Burma

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 19 (AP)—A flight of American Liberator bombers and two other United States and British planes were attacked by Japanese anti-aircraft crews in China, Indo-China, and Burma yesterday, allied announcements said today.

One American plane, flying over Changsha in central China, was damaged and subsequently was forced to make a crash landing but the crew escaped injury, Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer disclosed in Chungking.

The flight of Liberators, carrying surrender leaflets over Saigon, capital of Indo-China, was attacked by light to moderate flak from gun batteries protecting a Japanese arsenal. The Liberators encountered one Japanese plane over Saigon at 9,000 feet, but it did not molest the Americans.

The Liberators followed another Japanese plane over a nearby air field and then showered the airstrip with leaflets announcing Japan's surrender without meeting any air or ground opposition.

A heavy anti-aircraft barrage was flung at a British Beaufighter plane flying reconnaissance over Moulmein and south of the lower Burmese town.

Aground, Japanese continued firing and two men were wounded in allied approaches to their lines on the Abya front, northeast of Pegu. A patrol on a routine operation also was fired upon and withdrew.

A Beaufighter fleet started dropping medical supplies and cigarets on 10 prisoner of war camp areas along the Bangkok-Moulmein railroad where notorious slave labor conditions prevail. The prisoner of war camps are believed to contain some Americans, besides British, Australians, and Dutch.

No Surrender Moves

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 19 [Reuters]—Altho the allies have now dropped half a million leaflets on Japanese positions in Burma giving the news of the emperor's surrender, there is still no evidence of surrender moves by local Japanese commanders.

8 MORE JAILED AT NEURNBERG FOR WAR TRIALS

NUERNBERG, Germany, Aug. 19 (AP)—Eight more Nazis charged as war criminal defendants and "mystery" witnesses have been flown here to join Hermann Goering and 14 other Nazis already in the Nuernberg city jail awaiting trial, it was disclosed tonight.

Col. Howard Brundage of 909 Bonnie Brae, River Forest, Ill., who disclosed the new arrivals, refused to reveal names but said two of the eight were considered prime witnesses. One is a former secretary of one of the major defendants and the other was private pilot for another defendant.

Col. Brundage is a member of the staff of Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson, chief United States prosecutor for the forthcoming international trials. He said preparations for drawing up a four power indictment have progressed so slowly that it is unlikely the trials can start before Oct. 1 and they might be delayed until Oct. 15.

A-BOMB INVADES DIVINE REALM, CHAPLAIN SAYS

May Unite Forces for Good, He Tells GIs

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 19—"The atomic bomb infringes into the realm of God's prerogative," Chaplain Capt. John U. Harris, substituting in the pulpit for Dean Beekman in the American pro-cathedral said this morning before a packed congregation of American staff officers, GIs, Red Cross personnel, and WACs.

Harris, Chicago born and formerly rector of Trinity church, Boston, used the atomic bomb as the theme of his sermon, saying:

"It is purely a negative force and not a moral force. It kills the guiltless as well as the guilty, and does not uplift American morals nor depress Japanese morals. It was created for destructive purposes. It may mature to enrich the welfare of mankind. Thus, out of evil may come righteousness. There is reason to believe the atomic bomb will unite the forces for good.

Can Crystalize Unity

"Pearl Harbor galvanized the nation into one people, and the atomic bomb can crystalize the spiritual unity among Christians, now beclouded by parochialism and denominationalism. Divine providence revealed the secret of the atomic bomb to us and has given us the responsibility—suppose Germany or Japan had found the secret first?

"But can we imagine God creating the world, only to have it blown up? Atomic force can make life more wonderful, if directed by the spirit of Christ."

Britain Gives Thanks
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 19—From the spiritual heart of the British empire, St. Paul's cathedral, the king and queen today gave thanks for the first peaceful Sunday since Sept. 3, 1939.

Hundreds of thousands, lining the route from Buckingham palace to the cathedral, gave restrained applause as the royal party passed in a landau. They also cheered the heads of the military, naval, and air services and members of the new Labor government in following cars, but the most sincere greetings were reserved for former Premier Churchill, who led Britain to victory.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, in his sermon of thanksgiving said that the atomic bomb is a shocking reminder that war is an unclean business. Warning that the "world has not yet gained peace, for conflicts, sufferings, and inhumanities continue, and man is not everywhere free and is still sinful," Fisher called on the people of the world to labor as hard for peace as they did for war.

"Weapons of Darkness"

Deploring that in the "fight for light against spiritual darkness we had to enter that darkness ourselves and to use the weapons of darkness," the archbishop said:

"Physically the atomic bomb is a new thing. Morally it differs not in kind but only in terrible degree from every other weapon of total war. The horror of its potency to destroy a million lives in a moment comes as a terrible, shocking reminder that war is an unclean business, and that none can touch it even in a righteous cause, even to defend, as we have had to defend the sanctities of human lives, without defilement."

Among those at the cathedral service were the regent of Iraq, King George of Greece, King Peter and Queen Alexandra of Yugoslavia, members of parliament, the diplomatic corps headed by the American ambassador, John Winant; and scientists who helped produce the atomic bomb.

Calls for Free Press

At Westminster cathedral, the Roman Catholic archbishop, Dr. Bernard Griffin called for a world wide free press.

"Both in American and this country, since the end of hostilities, censorship of press and radio has been removed," he said. "These should now be used to foster truth. True nationalism can be fostered by nations allowing their nationals to visit the outside world and to receive ideas from abroad. There should be full exchange of ideas, freedom to pass from one country to another, freedom for press and radio to speak the truth."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Aug. 19, 1945

ONE of the paradoxes of farming is that July and August generally produce weather needed to make a good corn harvest and which, at the same, harms pastures and hay land. This year conditions have been reversed.

For the first time in many years pastures and hay lands are not burned as a result of hot weather. Usually at this time farmers are worried about their pastures and in many cases are feeding supplementary hay to keep live stock in good condition. July and August have been fairly cool and there have been enough moisture and cool nights to keep the grass growing and in good shape.

Too Cool to Aid Corn

This type of weather, however, has not been good for the corn, which likes the temperature in the 90s with plenty of hot nights. This kind of growing weather is necessary to make a firm and mature corn crop. Temperatures lately have been below normal and have been little help to a late planted corn crop. July and August weather has increased prospects for a soft corn crop.

At the Wheaton farm all of the live stock except a few head is grazing on clover fields. After the harvesting of the first cutting the animals were turned into the green fields and now are getting plenty to eat. A close watch is being kept over the animals to make sure none of them bloats on the green clover.

Premature Calf Lives

The first Shorthorn calf of the year was born last week. It came as quite a surprise. The cow, a cripple, kept because it was in calf, produced its offspring two months ahead of time. Usually in such cases the calf does not live. This time, however, the farm had some luck and the calf is frisking about in good health. The men claim it is not much bigger than a dog.

Last week two Shorthorn cows were bred to the Angus bull as an experiment. The men want to find out how the crossbred calves stand up to purebred calves. They will be checked against each other for birth size, rate of growth, pasturing ability, and behavior in the feed lot.

Tests in Montana have proved that crossbred calves, especially those with Angus blood, do better under range conditions than the purebred animals. The men at the Wheaton farm would like to know if the same holds true for midwestern cattle growers.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have hotbeds or coldframes in their yards can make excellent use of these frames as auxiliary gardens to be planted and harvested during the fall and early winter. Articles in this space during the next few days will contain data on this subject.

Hotbeds, with heat derived from the chemical action of manure, electric wiring, or from the sun's rays thru basement windows, are more adaptable for autumn vegetable production than are coldframes, because some form of artificial heat will be needed during October and November. It is possible, however, to raise leaf lettuce, radishes, and other vegetables of a short maturity period in coldframes with no heat other than direct sunlight.

A base of 12 to 16 inches of horse or cow manure, placed under six inches of black dirt, provides the simplest method of heating a standard coldframe. The fermentation of the manure, in conjunction with sunlight, will help to maintain the recommended growing temperature of 70 to 75 degrees even when the outdoor temperature drops to near freezing.

3 U.S. DIPLOMATS RESCUED AFTER PARIS EVICTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 19—Three American diplomats representing the United States at the conference on Tangier here now have a roof over their heads and a place to eat as a result of the intervention of their British colleagues.

Rives Childs, former American minister at Tangier, Harry Villard, director of the African division in the state department, and Ernest Dempster, legal expert, were evicted from the Ritz when the American army relinquished that hotel to the French.

They appealed to the army but the billeting officer said all other requisitioned hotels were jammed. All the civilians' hotels also were full, and they faced the prospect of patronizing black market restaurants or going hungry, until the Britons found them rooms in the Wagram hotel, with the privilege of eating at the British mess there.

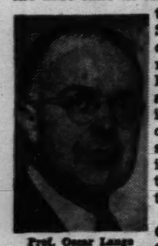
LANGE TO YIELD CITIZENSHIP TO BE POLES' ENVOY

U. of C. Professor High in Stalin's Favor

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19—For the first time in the diplomatic history of the United States an American citizen is renouncing his allegiance to his adopted country in order to become the ambassador to Washington of the nation he disowned two years ago.



Prof. Oscar Lange

He is Prof. Oscar Lange of the University of Chicago, a native of Poland and a former member of the Polish Socialist party, who is to be the first envoy of the soviet puppet state of Poland.

Lange stands high in the favor of Dictator Stalin, having been invited by the soviet leader to visit the union of Polish patriots in Moscow. Members of the union set up the former Lublin government sponsored by Russia and are strongly entrenched in the reorganized government now functioning under Red surveillance.

Appointment Delayed

Lange's appointment as ambassador was reported by a high state department official. The appointment will bring an unprecedented ceremony in the executive offices of the White House. Within a few days Lange, after he revokes the allegiance he once pledged to the holder of the nation's highest office, will call at the executive mansion to present his credentials.

The appointment of an ambassador by the new Polish government has been delayed pending the adjustment of Lange's status. The delay mystified diplomatic circles here because the United States dispatched Arthur Bliss Lane, its ambassador to Poland, to Warsaw six hours after the new Polish state was recognized last June.

At the department of justice it was explained that Lange will encounter no difficulty in foreswearing his allegiance. Under the law he need only to fill out a form supplied by the bureau of immigration and have the form signed by Atty. Gen. Clark.

Procedure Established

On renunciation a naturalized citizen immediately becomes a citizen of the country of his birth. It is possible for an American citizen to renounce citizenship, but he then becomes a man without a country and could not obtain a passport to leave this country. Citizenship of any country is automatically renounced on taking an oath of allegiance to another country.

Procedure for renouncing citizenship was established under an act of July 27, 1868, which declared that in a free country it is against public policy to deny the right of expatriation, it was reported at the justice department.

Lange, who is 41 years old, came to this country in 1937 and applied for citizenship. He joined the faculty of the University of Chicago in 1938 as an assistant professor of economics. He became an associate professor in 1939 and a full professor in 1943, the year he received his final citizenship papers. He was a visiting professor of economics at Columbia university in 1942 and 1943.

In 1944 he was given a passport to Russia by special dispensation, as ordinarily citizens are not granted passports until they have completed five years of citizenship.

He was accompanied on his trip by the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, a Catholic priest of Springfield, Mass. The visit of the economist and priest created controversy in this country over allegations that the two were seeking to sovietize Poland and enlist sympathy for the soviet cause among Americans of Polish extraction.

In congress a demand was made for their prosecution under a statute which provides that any citizen who undertakes without permission negotiations with a foreign government on disputes or controversies affecting this country may be fined $5,000 and jailed for three years.

Annual Picnic

Picnic areas in Chicagoland were packed yesterday with week-end outdoor enthusiasts.

A flow of air from the northeast off Lake Michigan gave Chicagoans relief from a heat wave which hung over the plains states as the temperatures hovered around 90 degrees.

Members of the Norwegian Old Peoples' Home society celebrated the organization's golden anniversary with a picnic and reunion on the grounds at the home at Nina and Avondale avs.

The society and the Camp Little Norway club, a division of American Relief for Norway, were cosponsors of the celebration which opened at 2 p. m. with presentation of colors by the Sea Scout troop of the north shore squadron.

More than 15,000 Chicagoans of German ancestry attended the 68th volksfest [harvest festival] sponsored by the Schwaben-Verein of Chicago at Harms park, Western and Berteau avs.

A children's play, "Puppchens Hochzeit" [Wedding of the Doll], was presented by Gertrude Maxham, 1707 N. Wells st., and was followed by an evening performance of "Zur Rosenzeit" [Time of Roses], a one act operetta.

FRENCH WOMEN WAVE EMPTY FOOD BASKETS

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 19—Demonstrations staged by housewives with empty market baskets thruout France over the week-end presaged new worries for Food Minister Christian Pineau when he returns to Paris tomorrow from his food hunting mission in the United States and South America.

In Avranches, scene of Gen. Patton's historic breakthru a year ago, municipal authorities this morning took the unprecedented step of ordering the sale of butter without ration tickets following a public indignation meeting over food restrictions, the rising cost of living, and continuance of the black market.

Rouen, for the second time in a week, was the scene of demonstrations by housewives who marched to the prefecture to register their complaints. Similar incidents occurred in the Alpine town of Lonsle-Saunier.

Paris Discontent Rises

There have been no large scale demonstrations in Paris which is now half empty due to the holiday season but discontent is rising in the capital because Parisians find it almost impossible to find food on the regular market while the costly black market continues to be well supplied.

Press photos showing smiling Berlin housewives receiving white bread reportedly baked from American flour, and articles on the improved food conditions in Belgium and Holland are not improving the temper of the Parisians.

Altho fruit is plentiful there are no vegetables on the Paris market. There has been no distribution of potatoes for nearly a month. More than half the grocers and bakers have shut up shop and gone to the country for a vacation.

Starting tomorrow each consumer will receive a 6 ounce can of corned beef free—a gift from the Argentine government. But the weekly meat ration of about 4 ounces — which Pineau recently promised would be doubled—will be reduced this week to about 3 ounces.

Amounts to Little

Altho France has received an impressive tonnage of imported foodstuffs in the last year, an analysis shows that when divided among 40,000,000 inhabitants it amounts to little. According to official figures, 911,400 metric tons of food were imported from the date of the liberation until Aug. 1, this year.

This provides 50 American pounds to the individual or about one pound a week. Of the total tonnage received 668,583 metric tons came from the allied countries, 230,869 tons from the French colonies, and less than 12,000 tons from the neutral countries.

ARAB SAYS F.D.R. PROMISED NOT TO BACK JEWS

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Aug. 19 (AP)—Azzam Bey, secretary general of the Arab league, declared today President Roosevelt had promised King Ibn Saud that "he would not support the Jews in Palestine."

[Reporters in Washington who accompanied Mr. Roosevelt home from Yalta said no such pledge ever was mentioned by the President or any of his press aides. They recalled that Mr. Roosevelt and the Saudi Arabian king held long conversations aboard a warship with no other persons present.]

Expresses Bewilderment

Jewish leaders are seeking to make Palestine a Jewish national homeland. President Truman asserted last week he had discussed the question at Potsdam and that the American view is that as many Jews as possible should be let into Palestine.

Azzam Bey's statement expressed bewilderment why Mr. Truman would discuss the Palestine question with British leaders at Potsdam and said:

"We would like to remind him [Mr. Truman] of one of the last promises made by President Roosevelt when he put his hand in the hand of King Ibn Saud and promised him he would not support the Jews in Palestine."

Azzam Bey declared that the problem of the immigration of Jews into Palestine would "only be a very small factor" toward solving the Jewish world problem.

"The Arabs," he said, "will never give up their objection to Jewish immigration which would destroy their nation."

Puzzled About Russia

Azzam Bey also commented that Mr. Truman in his statement last Thursday said the Palestine problem had been discussed only with British leaders at Potsdam and made no mention of Russia.

"That Russia was not consulted," Azzam Bey commented, "is not understandable here because if the Palestine problem is an international one, then how could they ignore a big country like Russia? And if it is not an international problem why then is the United States interfering in such a delicate problem?"

Azzam Bey asserted the Palestine problem "is an Arab problem and establishment of a Jewish national home in an Arab country would ignore the desire of all Arabs and Moslems and would not be a good factor for establishing a new peaceful world."

ZIONISTS AWAIT BRITISH ACTION ON JEWISH STATE

Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 19 (AP)—Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, O., tonight declared that the British Labor party a few months ago indorsed the Jewish state and "we are awaiting quick action on the part of the new British government."

Rabbi Silver, who recently returned from England as head of the American delegation to the London conference of world Zionist organizations, said "the Jews of the world are delighted to learn President Truman took up the question of a Jewish state with Prime Minister Attlee and Churchill at Potsdam."

GEN. WAINWRIGHT FOUND SAFE BY YANK CHUTISTS

Risk Lives to Visit Nine Jap Prison Camps

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who "has a special job for him," Wedemeyer said.

Parachute to Nine Camps

Wedemeyer disclosed that volunteer United States "humanitarian teams" had been dropped in the vicinity of nine prisoner of war camps in the China theater, in which the Japanese were holding an estimated 20,000 allied war prisoners and 15,000 civilian internees, 10 per cent of them Americans.

These places were Mukden, Peiping, Weihsien [Shantung province], Korea, Shanghai, Canton-Hong Kong area, Hainan, Formosa, and Indo-China.

Each team carried a radio communication set and 500 pounds of medicine and food, such as powdered milk, dehydrated soup and vitamins. The Japanese were told ahead of time, by leaflets dropped from planes, that the parachutists were coming, for purely humanitarian reasons.

Unmolested by Japs

The Japanese did not molest them. But no one knew in advance what the Japanese might do.

The story of the parachutists was told by Brig. Gen. George Olmstead of Des Moines, Ia., who planned and directed their activities. Olmstead started organizing the teams in mid-July. Each consisted of six volunteers chosen for proficiency in medical work, signals, and the Chinese and Japanese languages.

"Over-all conditions in the camps were much better than we expected," Wedemeyer said. "The prisoners had been treated quite well, and illness was not unusually high."

Hospital ships have been asked to rush to ports and evacuate the prisoners as soon as possible.

Wedemeyer disclosed that the men who reached Wainwright's camp flew 1,100 miles from Siking [Sian] in Shensi province Aug. 16. They dropped to earth several hours later. Another of the "humanitarian teams" dropped 300 yards from a camp at Mukden, without interference by the Japanese.

Risk Lives to Jump

All members of the medical teams were volunteers, practically none of whom ever had parachuted before. No one knew what kind of a reception they would get, and they were taking a risk that required great heroism, Wedemeyer commented. Among those dropped were personnel from army air groups and the navy.

Personnel of British army aid groups have moved overland and now are near some camps.

Wedemeyer emphasized that there would be no discrimination in succoring allied prisoners of war and civilian internees, regardless of their nationality. Food, medical attention, and speedy removal now are the principal concerns.

He said allied prisoners of war and civilian internees included 3,600 at Mukden; 9,000 in Shanghai; 2,800 in Hainan; 6,000 in Hong Kong; 2,700 in Peiping; 1,000 in Korea; 2,500 in Formosa; and 5,600 in Indo-China. Wedemeyer estimated 30,000 more are in the Japanese home islands.

1321 Yanks in One Camp

One team reported finding 1,673 prisoners in a camp at Mukden, consisting of 1,321 Americans; 293 Britons; 67 Dutchmen; 44 Australians; one Canadian, and one Frenchman. Most of them were underweight, the team reported.

The contact team landing at Weihsien, Shantung province, reported that "the Japanese, while sullen, offered no resistance to our taking over, but we have to keep talking them into line."

The administration at this camp included one American, with the remainder British. It had hospital and medical supplies. Chinese troops were on guard in an area near the camp, while the Japanese held control of a wall surrounding the prisoners.

Jap General Courteous

A team in the Peiping area reported "an excellent landing," and found the Japanese general there courteous but unwilling to allow the American medical men to see the prisoners until he could get permission from superiors at Nanking.

Wedemeyer said there were 34 prisoners at the Sian camp where Wainwright was held; eight Americans, 16 Britons and ten Dutchmen.

For the camp at Mukden these items were asked: shoes, rations, 1,000 pounds of sugar, 200 pounds of salt, 3,400 bars D rations, 1,725 bath towels, 1,725 pairs of wool sox, matches, miscellaneous office supplies, 1,725 underclothes, cigarets, one set of large fiddle strings, two sets of guitar strings.

Wedemeyer's report was the first authentic information of the war to come out of the prison camps, which many allied leaders had feared were not being conducted according to international law. Gen. Wainwright's whereabouts had been reported from time to time, the last report saying he had been transferred early this year from a camp on Formosa to another camp in Manchuria.

Has American Wife

The word that Jonkheer Tjarda Van Starkenborgh had been found in the camp with Wainwright was the first accurate information about him in more than three years. The Domei news service said in April, 1942, that he and other captured Dutch leaders were to be questioned about the part they played in the war.

Member of an aristocratic Dutch family that traces its lineage back to the 15th century, he was credited by Dutch colonials with having more pre-war power in the Indies than the Dutch queen had in Holland. Van Starkenborgh's wife is an American, the former Christine Marburg of Baltimore, daughter of a former United States ambassador to Belgium.

Each team of parachutists, except those dropped in Korea and at Mukden, included one or more men who at the peril of their lives had clandestinely kept contact with the different camps.

"One of these men—a typical example—operated secretly near a prisoner of war camp in the Shanghai area up to a year ago," said Gen. Olmstead.

Hop Takes 11 Hours

"Subsequently, he had a little unexciting job, but we took him out and put him in a team marked 'Shanghai.' His familiarity with the location and language was invaluable."

The weight of supplies taken with the teams, Olmstead said, had been limited because of the big gasoline load necessary for the long flights. The hop from Siking [Sian] in Shensi province to Mukden and back required over 11 hours.

All flights to points north of the Yangtze river were undertaken from Siking, while those south of the river started at Kunming.

The plans, Olmstead said, were divided into five stages. First came a secret contact with the camps. Next, the leaflets were dropped. Then the teams were parachuted. After that it was arranged to bring further supplies, either by parachuting or by landing the planes. The final stage is evacuation of the prisoners.

Gave Up Corregidor

The circumstances of war forced Wainwright into one of the most tragic and bitter roles ever enacted by an American general. It fell to his lot as American commander in the Philippines to surrenher Corregidor to the Japanese May 6, 1942. Bataan had fallen a month earlier, and the survivors had crossed the two mile channel to the island fortress for a gallant but heart breaking stand.

Wainwright had taken command in March, 1942, after Gen. MacArthur was ordered to Australia to become supreme allied commander in the southwest Pacific.

Wainwright knew the Philippines were doomed, but he battled to the last ditch and stayed with his men even when the situation was beyond hope.

Wainwright was born in Walla Walla, Wash., Aug. 23, 1883.

GEN. PARKER'S RESCUE IS FIRST NEWS IN A YEAR

Portland, Ore., Aug. 19 (AP)—The wife of Maj. Gen. George M. Parker Jr., rescued from a Japanese prison camp in Manchuria with Lt. Gen. Wainwright, said tonight it was the first news of her husband since a letter received in August, 1944.

Mrs. Parker, whose husband was commander of the 7th infantry at Vancouver, Wash., barracks until April, 1941, said she had received only 10 letters during his three years of imprisonment.

Gen. Parker served with Gen. MacArthur when he was chief of staff, and was called to the Philippines from the Vancouver post to command the 2d army corps. He was born in Sac City, Ia.

World's First Station Celebrates 25th Birthday

A quarter-century ago, commercial* radio broadcasting began. On August 20, 1920, the "billion year silence of the ether" was broken by WWJ, originally 8MK, The Detroit News radio station.

Many broadcasting "firsts" followed.

WWJ was America's first commercial radio station to broadcast daily programs. First to broadcast election returns. First to broadcast World Series results. First to broadcast a complete symphony concert. First to organize a broadcasting orchestra.

Throughout 25 years of existence, WWJ has maintained its leadership in public service, entertainment and ethical responsibility. Recently, it demonstrated its initiative by becoming the first station to ban transcribed announcements and transcribed singing commercials. And immediately after Pearl Harbor it eliminated middle commercials from newscasts.

Looking ahead, WWJ established a Frequency Modulation station — WENA — which has been in constant daily operation since May 9, 1941. Ten months ago an application was filed with the Federal Communications Commission for permission to construct a Television station.

The pioneering spirit which actuated the establishment of America's first commercial broadcasting station lives and thrives at WWJ after 25 years of broadcasting in the "public interest, convenience and necessity."

*WWJ acknowledges the pioneering research efforts of such scientists as Dr. Lee de Forest, Dr. Frank Conrad and others operating under experimental and amateur licenses.

WAINWRIGHT'S WIFE ENDS FOUR YEARS' WAITING

'Just Marvelous' to Hear General Is Safe

Skaneateles, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—News of the rescue from a Japanese prison camp of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright came to his wife today as a "wonderful surprise."

More than four years of anxious waiting ended for Mrs. Wainwright at 5 a. m. today when she was informed.

"That's wonderful, just wonderful! I can't think of anything more now; I'm so excited," she exclaimed.

Later, in an interview, she said she "never doubted for a minute" that the report was correct.

"Just Marvelous"

"I was about sure that anyone calling at that time had something important to say. Then, when I was told it had been announced by Gen. Wedemeyer, I knew it was true. "I think it just marvelous. I never dreamed they'd be rescued unless the Russians got in."

Mrs. Wainwright said she was making no plans until she received word from her husband.

"If they are flying him to Chungking tomorrow it's possible that he may take part in the formal surrender of Japan," she said. "If that is so, that will delay his homecoming.

"The last time I saw him was when I left Manila in May, 1941—four years and four months ago. That was when the army advised the wives and children of officers and enlisted men on active duty in the Philippines should return to the United States."

Last Letter in January

Mrs. Wainwright said the last letter she received from her husband was written last January from a prison camp in Hoten, Manchuria.

"At that time," she said, "he wrote that he weighed 125 pounds, or about 35 pounds underweight. He's over six feet tall, you know.

"But even so, that's more than he weighed when Corregidor fell. In a a letter he wrote the night before, which was sent out by submarine, he mentioned that he weighed exactly what he did when he was graduated from West Point in 1906, which was 121 pounds. That's where he got his nickname of Skinny."

SISTER WANTS WAINWRIGHT AT JAP SURRENDER

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 19 (AP)—A sister of Lt. Gen. Wainwright, liberated by American forces, expressed the wish today that her brother be present at the acceptance of allied surrender terms by the Japanese.

"I think it would be most fitting if he could be present," said Mrs. Frederick Mears of Seattle.

"He has always been a man of the highest military ideals and it must have been bitter that he would be one of the few American commanders ever required to surrender.

"I am thankful that his sense of military honor and loyalty to his men has had such a happy ending. We had feared Japanese treachery and we thank God he is safe."

MEET KILROY; HE'S GI RIVAL OF LEGION'S ELMER

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, Aug. 19—Elmer, the gentleman every one asks for at American Legion conventions, probably will have a rival for attention when the men of this war get home and "Kilroy" starts getting about in civilian life.

Elmer seems to have been born in the muddy trenches of France in World War I. Kilroy got his legendary start at Boca Raton, Fla., air base. One version is that a fellow named Kilroy attended, after a fashion, radar classes there. When he attended he went to sleep. Frequently he didn't attend at all. His companions noticing his eccentric habits began scribbling notes and leaving them in the classroom.

Fame Girdles Globe

"Kilroy is coming," was a sample. "Kilroy slept here," was another. Today Kilroy notes, scribbled on washroom and barracks walls by young bomber crews and fighter pilots, have multiplied by the thousands and circled the globe.

Travelers coming to the Pacific probably will first make the acquaintance of Kilroy when they check in at the army's air transport command base at Hamilton field, Cal. When they reach their quarters they will find Kilroyisms on the wall, and in the washroom they will find Kilroy has been there, too.

When travelers reach Hickam field, Honolulu, they will find more evidence of the ubiquitous Kilroy. On the big world map in the lobby of the transient officers' quarters, still scarred by Jap bullets in the Jap sneak attack, they will find Kilroy not only has been there but that he discovered a Pacific island in 1944. This new island, crudely inked into the big map, naturally is named Kilroy Island.

Signed Peace, Too

The same map notes that Kilroy lives midway between Wake Island and Tokyo. Another notation says Kilroy soon will be in Tokyo. On Guam a few hours after President Truman announced Japan's surrender a scribbled note appeared on the latrine wall saying, "Kilroy signed the peace here."

Efforts to erase Kilroy from the air force mind—and from washroom walls—have failed utterly. At the Herington, Kas., air base the commanding officer, irritated when he opened a new sanitary toilet during a hygiene demonstration and found a note inside saying, "Kilroy slept here," tried to kill off Kilroyisms.

Next morning the washroom walls were washed clean of all Kilroy mementos and a notice posted reading, "Kilroy is dead. Any one believing otherwise and writing on these walls can have an interview with the commanding officer."

Within an hour the colonel's orders were being countermanded by individuals who signed themselves "Kilroy's ghost," "The Claw," and "Mook, the spook." The commanding officer gave up.

Soon Kilroy probably will be coming home from his travels but his friends say they will keep his memory alive whenever air force veterans gather, reminisce, and toast their comrades who will never come home. And, they say, Elmer better look to his laurels.

BRITISH PLEAD POVERTY; ASK MORE U. S. GOODS

Seek Billions in Food and Raw Materials

volume. They assert that unless America comes to their rescue they will lack the machinery and raw materials to feed their population. They picture England facing a reduction of living standards or mass migration of its population.

The British external debt is about 15 billion dollars of which 12 billion consists of frozen sterling balances. England imposes trade restrictions to limit purchase of British goods with sterling balances. India is one such creditor to the tune of 5 billions, which the British are expected to refund over a period of 40 to 50 years.

Clayton went to London to look into the state of British finances in connection with a British request for terms on which nonmilitary lend-lease might be continued after the termination of military lend-lease, as provided by the lend-lease act for the purpose of tapering off commitments. Presumably he will be informed how much gold the British government now possesses, what dollar balances, what foreign investments, and other assets.

Raised Gold Quickly

It was by a show of impoverishment that Great Britain persuaded President Roosevelt in the early '30s that it could not pay its 4 billion dollar first World war debt. Britain said it could not pay in goods because of our high tariff, nor in gold because it couldn't get the gold. But when the second World war started, Britain quickly raised 5 billions in gold by liquidation of foreign investments.

England exhausted a 2 billion dollar balance in this country by the summer of 1941 but after lend-lease started rebuilt its balance to a larger figure far exceeding that amount. Lend-lease restored Britain's pre-war financial position in the face of Sen. Truman's statement Nov. 5, 1943 that lend-lease would be extended "only where the recipient was fully utilizing all his own resources." The British gold reserve is now said to have reached unprecedented proportions.

Protests Aid to Russia

Sen. Taft [R., O.] said last month in the senate that it probably would be necessary to help Britain out with about 3 billions of credit. He calculated that with nearly 3 billions advanced to the international stabilization fund, 9 billions of international bank loans floated in this country, 3½ billions loaned thru the Export-Import bank and 3 billions advanced to Britain the United States will have a stake of more than 18 billions in world rehabilitation. Of the Export-Import bank loans 1 billion has been earmarked for Russia, despite a rising protest voiced by Taft against financing a country that is endeavoring to extend communism to the United States.

France also is seeking American financial assistance for economic recovery. Gen. De Gaulle is bringing his economic advisers to Washington this week to lay the French plight before President Truman. The French already are obtaining non-military goods under a 2½ billion dollar lend-lease agreement at 2½ per cent interest.

U. S. Aid to Italy Listed

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The allies sent 1,404,966 tons of civilian supplies into Italy from the time of Marshal Badoglio's capitulation in 1943 to the end of February, 1945, the British information ministry said tonight.

The United States provided 691,711 tons of the total, which does not include 360,000 tons of coal and other supplies turned over by the allied armies for civilian use. The United States figure includes 641,363 tons of food.

Capper Predicts Pressure to Avoid Paying War Debt

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 19 (AP)—Pressures from all sides to escape paying the 300 billion dollar war debt will provide real test for the United States, Sen. Capper [R., Kas.] said today in a radio address. He predicted that "war workers will want to continue to receive war wages, communities with war industries will want to keep those industries going, and the treasury raiders will descend on Washington from all directions."

2 IN STOLEN CAR CHASED 6 MILES; CAUGHT IN CRASH

After a chase of more than six miles along the lake front by three squads of pistol shooting park police, John Ebbitt, 36, of 6248 Harper av., an ex-convict, driving a stolen car, was arrested yesterday when he crashed into an electric pole and the sea wall at Lake Shore dr. and Oak st.

John Ebbitt

Ebbitt and his nephew, Robert Bowman, 16, also of 6248 Harper av., stepped out of the wreck with minor cuts and bruises. Lt. Ralph Riley and Policeman Edward Bidwill of the Chicago park district said they started the chase at 43d st. and the Outer dr., and began firing at Ebbitt at 28th st. The cars reached a speed of 85 miles an hour at times.

A police radio call brought two more squads into the chase and eight other police cars blocked the streets off the Outer dr. Ebbitt denied stealing the car and said he was trying to sell it for a friend. Police said he had a fictitious police badge and a toy pistol. He served terms in Joliet penitentiary and the Minnesota state penitentiary for robbery. He was released Nov. 1, 1939, from the Minnesota prison.

MARINE PRIEST TO REPORT ON OKINAWA BURIAL

Father Paul Redmond, a navy commander and chaplain assigned to service with the marines, passed thru Chicago yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., to report to the navy department on the burial of marines killed in action on Okinawa. Comdr. Redmond, who went ashore with the first marines at Okinawa and Guam, is believed to be the most decorated chaplain in the navy. The chaplain, who is on a 30 day leave, said the average age of the 3,000 marines he helped to bury on Okinawa was 19 years. He has been overseas two years and a service chaplain for five years. Later, he will go on duty in San Francisco among marines returning from Pacific duty.

ESTRANGED WIFE KILLS BABY SHE FEARED LOSING

Chokes Son by Pushing Cotton Down Throat

Mrs. Anne Zygula, 32, of 2130 Erie st., who had told neighbors she was distraught with fear that her estranged husband might take away her baby, Kenneth, 19 months old, strangled the child to death yesterday by choking him with cotton.

Louis Zygula

The mother immediately became hysterical and telephoned her sister, Mrs. Patricia Piszyk, 24, of 2639 Augusta blvd.

"I've just killed the baby!" she screamed on the phone.

Work to Revive Infant

Mrs. Piszyk, another sister, Mrs. Pauline Kargol, 27, of 2708 Thomas st., and their father, Peter, who lives at the Augusta blvd. address, found the child's body still warm.

A fire department resuscitation squad strove for half an hour to revive the infant. Cotton had been packed into the baby's throat and its legs were tied with a diaper.

Mrs. Zygula's relatives said they found her trying to choke herself with a necktie when they reached her four room apartment. She was taken to the psychopathic hospital by police, who said she was too hysterical to tell why she had killed Kenneth.

Separated Last May

When Detectives Thomas Durso and Edward Russell were attempting to question her at the North av. police station, her husband, Louis, 31, a truck driver, of 11156 Sawyer av., arrived. The couple embraced and sobbed.

They were married eight years ago and separated last May, a month after Zygula was discharged from the coast guard. Detective Durso said Zygula visited his wife Saturday night and told her he was going to stay away permanently and would take the baby with him.

She was known to her neighbors as "a good mother."

Reconciliation Urged

"She always was a wonderful mother to that child," said Mrs. Eugene Jannota, 2132 Erie st. "She was devoted to the boy and to her husband, too, while he was in service two years. I remember how happy they both were when the baby was born."

Zygula's father, John, who lives in the flat on the floor below Mrs. Zygula, talked to his son Saturday night and tried to get him to return to his wife, neighbors said.

Mrs. Zygula almost collapsed at the police station, and some policemen wept when they saw her.

"I've murdered my baby," she said repeatedly. "I loved him and I've murdered him."

FALL FATAL TO WIDOW

EX-CONVICT HELD FOR ASSOCIATING WITH GIRLS, 14

Oak Park police yesterday charged Charles F. Fegan, 37, of 951 Lake st., Oak Park, who admitted being an ex-convict, with contributing to the delinquency of minor children, after he confessed picking up two 14 year old girls in Oak Park on Saturday evening and keeping them out until Sunday morning.

Fegan was named by the girls as their companion when their parents objected to one returning at 3 a. m. Sunday and the other returning at 10 a. m. Sunday. Both girls and Fegan insisted they had "ridden around all night" and that no advances had been made by him.

Fegan, a bottle washer, also uses the alias Earl Young, according to Lt. Fremont Nester of the Oak Park police, and is on parole for robbery. Both girls will be examined by physicians, Nester said. Fegan will appear in Oak Park police court on Tuesday morning.

Cab Driver Shot by Holdup Pair Is Seriously Wounded

Charles Gluckman, 55, of 3215 Douglas blvd., a Checker taxicab driver, was shot and seriously wounded in the chest yesterday by one of two men who attempted to rob him in his cab in the 3300 block on Van Buren st. He was taken to County hospital. The robbers fled on foot.

FATHER GRIEVING FOR SOLDIER SON KILLS HIMSELF

Arthur J. Kopp, 49, committed suicide by shooting in his home, 1216 Oakdale av., yesterday after writing a note to his wife saying the death of their soldier son in Germany had proved more than he could bear.

The son, Corp. Arthur J. Jr., 23, was reported lost when the plane on which he was a crew member fell over Germany last March.

Another son, Edward, 22, found the father dead in his bedroom. Kopp was a truck driver employed by the McCarthy Cartage company, 1955 N. Racine av.

WORLD AVIATION GROUP TO COST MILLION A YEAR

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 19—It will take at least $1,000,000 a year to keep the provisional civil aviation organization's council and secretariat running, according to the best estimates available here today.

This is exclusive of salaries and expenses of the 20 council members from 20 nations which those individual governments will pay. The council began its meetings last Wednesday in Montreal's Windsor hotel, and the budget will be considered for the first time tomorrow when the newly appointed finance committee meets under the chairmanship of Gurenth Bewoor of India.

Use Draft Budget

The only budgetary ideas the committee members will have are in a draft budget worked out by the Canadian preparatory commission which got the machinery ready for the meeting. The confidential document is said to provide salaries of $15,000 a year for the council president, Dr. Edward Warner, who will resign his $10,000 a year job with the United States civil aeronautics board to take the post, and $15,000 a year for the secretary-general, Dr. Albert Roper of Paris, for 25 years secretary-general of the European international commission for air navigation.

The Canadians have said that their idea of a secretariat for the provisional air organization includes 136 jobs. All of these will be paid out of international funds to be collected presumably on some pro-rate scale from the 54 nations which met and set up the organization in Chicago last fall and which are entitled to membership.

The secretariat salaries will be a relatively small part of the expenses. The council must lease office space, probably in the Dominion Square building here where the Canadian preparatory commission is housed, and is expected to set up regional offices in several quarters of the globe.

Other Expenses Listed

There will also be generous traveling allowances for the council members, technical advisers, and others who presumably will inspect international aviation operations.

The draft budget may be revised, however, when Bewoor's committee, including the delegates from Canada, Egypt, and El Salvador, gets to work on them.

The committee will report to a plenary session of the council which may revise the budget again, but only the general assembly of all the nations signing the pact can fix a budget.

The international civil aviation organization is the first of the global units off the drafting boards of the New Deal planners actually to get into operation, except for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

EVANSTON COUNCIL TO MAP CAMPAIGN ON SEX CRIMINALS

A campaign by authorities to put a stop to the rising number of rapes and other sex crimes in Cook county will be centered tonight in Evanston, where the city council will meet to consider plans to apprehend a Negro who raped a school teacher last Tuesday.

Robert E. James, acting mayor, said the council may recommend expansion of the night police watch and re-establishment of the detective bureau. A reward for information concerning the rapist also may be offered.

The Cook county state's attorney's office and Chicago police have initiated a policy of strict investigation and prosecution of all sex offenders. Authorities said the number of crimes of this nature has increased sharply in the last few months.

CONFETTI TRAIL LEADS TO WOMAN DEAD IN A WELL

Haddon Heights, N. J., Aug. 19 [Special] — The nude body of a woman about 30 years old, who apparently had been beaten to death after a victory celebration, was found today in a 26 foot well to which two boys were attracted by blood stained clothing, orchid evening slippers, and a souvenir skull cap inscribed, "It's all over."

The body was discovered just off a highway between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, by Richard Marr and Thomas Welsh, both 15. They told police they followed scattered confetti, clothing, and the slippers to the well, which had a 200 pound cover. They could see the body thru a small crack in the cover.

The woman weighed about 120 pounds. The clothing and slippers were described as of good quality.

1ST SUNDAY SPIN REFLECTS WAR'S TOLL ON AUTOS

Aren't Enough Good Cars to Clog Highways

The traffic jams which vexed motorists before the war won't be repeated until new automobiles are rolling from the assembly lines. An aerial survey by THE TRIBUNE of main Chicago area routes showed yesterday that there just aren't enough good cars left to clog the highways.

Family cars were on the open road, many of them on long jaunts, to celebrate the first week-end of freedom from gasoline rationing. Highway police and sheriffs' offices said traffic was double that of war time Sundays.

Concentrate on Wider Routes

From the air, in what should have been the evening rush hour, the motorists were showing their pre-war tendency to concentrate on the main and wider routes. This was evidence that super-highways will be urgently needed in the Chicago area when new cars are common and the average motorist can indulge in wanderlust.

Processions of a score or more cars were sighted on Skokie rd., Milwaukee av., Northwest highway, and other main routes into the northern Illinois and Wisconsin lake region. On four lane routes, however, the good cars had little trouble keeping over the 35 mile an hour speed limit which was abandoned Saturday after serving as a war time measure to conserve tires.

Stretches of Road Empty

Police said the traffic load increased after dark, but nowhere was seen the pre-war mile long columns of automobiles waiting to get past a main intersection. On the contrary, on good but less traveled routes, stretches of road a half mile long and more were empty when the survey plane flew overhead.

The traffic northwest, toward the lakes, underscored future demands for a northwest super-highway and improvements on Higgins rd. if the Douglas airport near Park Ridge is to be Chicago's main landing field.

Stations Open All Night

Sunday traffic also was increased thru Lincoln park and into the Indiana dune region as part of motorists' release that went with tearing up A coupons and ordering gasoline station attendants to "fill her up." Some stations, with midnight closing hours, started staying open all night.

If many cars—their average age today has been estimated at eight years—still cannot venture far from the home garage, indications were that better models are being driven long distances. At Brookfield zoo, one in every five cars parked yesterday had an out of state license, said Robert Bean, assistant director. The Chicago Motor club reported a big increase in inquiries about the best routes to national parks and to debarkation ports for overseas soldiers.

THOUSANDS FILL CHURCHES, GIVE VICTORY THANKS

All Faiths Utter Prayers for Enduring Peace

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Chicago lived up to its reputation as a church-going city yesterday in response to President Truman's call for a day of prayer and thanksgiving for victory in the Pacific. A check of several Protestant churches revealed attendances of more than double the normal for an August Sunday. Churches of Chicago's Roman Catholic archdiocese responded to Archbishop Stritch's special message. Synagogues were well filled for Saturday's Sabbath observance of the day.

Archbishop Stritch urged that while hearts are filled with gratitude to God Who had answered prayers for peace, none forget the catastrophes of war and its irreparable losses. "Cities which were built thru centuries were ruined," the archbishop said. "Economies which provided a livelihood for peoples have been destroyed. Millions are in misery and millions are dead. Never in history was there such a devastating war."

Pray to Make Peace Enduring

"As we prayed to God for peace thru victory of our arms," the prelate continued, "now we must pray for light and strength to make the peace genuine and enduring. Whatever the difficulty is before us, we must remember that it is within our power to establish a lasting peace in which men everywhere will enjoy that right which we call the pursuit of happiness."

Many churches specially honored their rosters of service personnel. At St. Paul's-by-the-Lake Episcopal church, Estes and Ashland avs., of which the Rev. Charles T. Hull is rector, the names of the 180 persons who have served in the conflict from that congregation were read prior to the eucharist. In addition to thanksgiving prayers, Methodists recalled the name of Bishop Francis Asbury, Methodism's American founder and first bishop, who arrived in America from England just 200 years ago. More than 200 Methodist churches bear his name.

British Societies in Prayer

British Consul Gen. Gallienne delivered a special address in St. James's Episcopal church, Wabash av. and Huron st., where British and Anglo-American societies joined with the regular congregation for the thanksgiving service. Members representing 40 such societies, together with five posts of the Canadian legion of the British Empire Service league, were in attendance.

Prof. Charles T. Holman of the federated theology faculties of the University of Chicago warned the congregation in Rockefeller Memorial chapel against building up "wish thinking" which, he said, erects "a world of fiction in which refuge is sought from the harsh brutalities of everyday life. There is such danger today when people seek this way of escape from the tragic facts and problems of our present world."

Joint Evanston Service

In Evanston, the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, and First Congregational churches united for a prayer service in the First Baptist church. Attendance overflowed the church and, after the invocation had been said, the ministers held a hasty consultation and announced that worshippers, choir, and all would move across the street to the First Presbyterian church, which has 400 more seats.

"I don't call it an exciting world, living here on a pokey old street where everybody is exactly like you and Dad."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 20—Washington outwits British

ON Aug. 20, 1781, Washington's forces were pressing toward King's Ferry, New York, to begin the brilliant maneuver which was to bring the Revolutionary war to an end.

The British held New York City, 40 miles below the point at which Washington had determined to cross the Hudson. It was necessary that they be deceived as to his real intention—which was nothing less than to march his American and French forces down to Chesapeake bay, keep a rendezvous with De Grasse's French fleet coming up from the West Indies, and in cooperation with Gen. Lafayette's army in Virginia to bottle up Cornwallis in Yorktown.

Washington artfully let Clinton, the British commander in New York, intercept some dispatches which indicated that the Americans planned a campaign around the mouth of the Hudson. He also caused some not too well concealed American equipment to be moved to the New Jersey shore of the river as tho in preparation for a long stay there. Then he quickly pushed the main body of his army across the Hudson at King's Ferry and, marching behind the palisades, passed rapidly thru Newark and New Brunswick, made a feint at Staten Island, and hurried off to the southward.

The American and French army, 6,000 strong, swung thru Trenton and Philadelphia, reached the head of Chesapeake bay, and was met by French transports which conveyed them by water to Virginia.

A little more than a month after Washington had left King's Ferry, the last division of his army had reached Williamsburg, Va. His masterly strategy had worked well. By the time Clinton had awakened to what was happening it was too late to take effective counter-measures.

By boldly executing such a large scale and daring maneuver, Washington had sealed Cornwallis' fate and with it that of the British power in America. When the British surrendered at Yorktown Oct. 19, 1781, the Revolutionary war was virtually at an end.

TRUMAN LEADS THANKFUL U. S. IN DAY OF PRAYER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19 (AP)—President Truman gave solemn thanks today for victory and peace, and thruout America people observed a day of prayer in churches of their faiths.

This was the day—the first peace time Sunday—which Mr. Truman set aside for the nation to offer its thonks.

The President participated in services in the East room of the White House, conducted by Brig. Gen. Luther D. Miller and Rear Adm. William N. Thomas, the army and navy chiefs of chaplains.

Seated beside the President was Mrs. Truman. Across the aisle were State Secretary and Mrs. Byrnes. Also in the assemblage there were members of the Supreme court and congress and high executives of government. There, too, were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of another war time president, and Mrs. Frank Knox, widow of the navy secretary.

MUSIC FESTIVAL IS CALLED BEST IN SERIES OF 16

The 16th annual Chicago Music Festival, which delighted 90,000 persons in Soldiers' field Saturday night with its great variety of tuneful spectacles and songs of peace and victory, appeared to its sponsors yesterday as the most satisfactory in the whole of the series.

Its success, for which several definite reasons were cited, also provided an enthusiastic start on plans for next year's festival. Besides retaining the many entertainment numbers and the top flight professional singers, both of which features were on a greater scale this year than ever before, the 1946 show will add sectional competition for vocalists.

Winners of first honors in the vocal contests, announced yesterday, were Miss Winifred Heckman, 21 of 7818 Crandon av., contralto, and Robert F. Dalton, 31, of 9505 Ohio st., bass-baritone.

STEAL WALLET, $48, IN FLAT

Edward Stormer, 7840 Bennett av., reported to police yesterday that burglars broke into his apartment and took his billfold containing $48.

BOMBER SPRAYS ROCKFORD WITH DDT IN POLIO WAR

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 19 [Special]—This city was sprayed from the air with DDT, the army's "miracle" insecticide, by a B-25 Mitchell bomber today in an army experiment to determine DDT's value in controling the spread of infantile paralysis.

The Rockford metropolitan area has had 140 cases of poliomyelitis since July 1, with 16 deaths. Its hospitals are crowded with victims and a shortage of nurses exists despite the supplying of 50 from Camp McCoy, Wis.

The bomber, specially outfitted with spray guns, arrived here at 1 p. m. after a flight from its temporary base at Truax field, Madison, Wis. Its home base is Wright field, Dayton, O.

Fly at 150 Feet

Maj. L. A. Otterson of Willows, Cal., was the pilot and Lt. G. L. Crosby of Evanston, Ill., was co-pilot. Capt. L. A. Nelson of Swartz Creek, Mich., in charge of airborne insecticide research at Wright field, was aboard as engineer in charge of the project.

Maj. Otterson swung over the city at 200 miles an hour at a height of 150 feet while Capt. Nelson operated the spray controls.

The DDT was fed into the sprays from a 560 gallon tank carried in the bomb bay. After five minutes of flying the tank was emptied and the plane flew back to Truax field for another load. Army officers said the sprays, when operated at maximum velocity, handle 215 gallons per minute.

Three Tanks Emptied

Three trips were made during the afternoon, and three tanks full were sprayed over the city. Several more flights will be made tomorrow. The theory of the spraying is that DDT will kill flies, and that flies, known as possible carriers of the virus which causes poliomeylitis, may be responsible for the current spread of the disease.

Dr. John R. Paul, a member of the medical research department of Yale university, who is here to supervise the experiment on behalf of the army, said the spray is being released only over a selected area, and that the unsprayed area will be compared with the sprayed section to determine DDT's effectiveness.

No information will be made public regarding which sections of the city have been sprayed and which unsprayed, Dr. Paul said, because officials fear this might confuse the experiment by causing a stampede into the protected area.

Citizens Stay Indoors

Many Rockford residents closed their doors and windows and remained indoors during the spraying operation as the result of the circulation of rumors that such action was desired by authorities. Dr. N. O. Gunderson, city health commissioner, said DDT is harmless to humans and that no such request had been made.

For the first time in several days, a 24 hour period ended today with no new infantile paralysis cases in the Rockford area.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN AND AMERICAN POLICY

Walter Trohan's account of what went on behind the scenes at Potsdam, printed Saturday in THE TRIBUNE, makes necessary a revision of views of that conference.

What was made public at the close of that conference now appears as one half — the Russian half — of a Russian-American bargain. It concerned almost wholly the arrangements for Europe. As we said at the time, and still believe, those arrangements were bad. It is not merely the fact that Russia dominates the system set up in central and eastern Europe that makes them so. The more important, and grievous, fact is that system is not going to work economically, whoever runs it. Europe was condemned at Potsdam to unnecessary misery.

By conceding the Russians the dominant interest in most of the European continent, President Truman, it is now disclosed, obtained Russian recognition of the predominant position of the United States in the Pacific. Mr. Trohan's informant assured him that the price of Russian entry into the war against Japan was strictly limited.

The Cairo promises regarding Manchuria and Korea are to be observed. Any privileges Russia gets in those areas must come from negotiation with China. The American will prevailed regarding bases. We, not Russia, are to have those in the Kuriles, for instance.

This was pure power politics. It makes a mockery of all the claptrap with which the nation was deluded in the attempt to justify a war which cost us death or wounds for a million Americans. But since we are committed to power politics, it is well to know it, and to know that for the first time in nearly 50 years, American interests were put first by an American President. The San Francisco charter, which is equally revealed in the light of these facts as claptrap, becomes harmless so long as the present trend persists—not only harmless, but impotent.

We have come out of the war the strongest nation on earth, and in view of our temporary scientific monopoly, stronger than all of the other nations of the world together, for a short time. Eventually we may have an equal in Russia, altho not necessarily a rival. With the Pacific islands in our hands, properly fortified and garrisoned, we will have nothing to fear from Russia even if it should exhibit intentions of which there is no present proof.

Quite obviously, if there is any real Russian threat to this country, it is political and internal, and not military and external. If Mr. Truman shows the same resolution in dealing with that threat as he is portrayed by Mr. Trohan with showing in dealing with foreign policy at Potsdam — the same resolution that Stalin pursues within Russia — we can look forward to a long and perhaps permanent period of good relations with the other real world power.

Great Britain, Iceland, and the Azores become our outposts toward Europe, but Great Britain must cease to dominate our foreign policy as she has since the beginning of the century. The concessions to Russia at Potsdam were undoubtedly most distressing to Mr. Churchill and Mr. Attlee. They could do nothing to prevent them. Mr. Truman believed, perhaps rightly, that they were less material to us than the assurance of our predominance in the Pacific.

It will continue to be our interest, as it has been during the last 30 years, to keep England from being invaded by any continental European nation, but we have no interest in maintaining her oppressive empire, and we certainly are not going to allow her domination of our foreign policy to continue, which is the only way in which that empire can be maintained, barring a change in British methods which this change in world power may have the salutary effect of bringing about.

AIR LINE TREATIES

The state department's failures have been manifest in so many diplomatic ventures that it comes as a pleasant surprise that the department has been energetic and successful in obtaining agreements which will give American air lines rights in a number of countries important in trans-Atlantic flying. The latest agreement has been negotiated with Switzerland and permits American overseas operators to pick up and discharge passengers, cargo, and mail at Swiss airports.

Similar agreements had been previously obtained from Sweden, Denmark, Spain, Iceland, and Ireland. The state department has yet to bring negotiations to a successful conclusion with a number of other nations in order to complete the routes which have been charted to Europe and the near east, but it is compensating in part, at least, for the laggard policy which was pursued during most of the war years.

When American military air fields were built all over Africa, Europe, the Azores, India, and the British holdings in the Pacific and charged up to lend-lease, ordinary prudence should have suggested that the period of construction was the most opportune time to obtain post-war rights to use of these facilities. In few, if any, instances, however, did our authorities ask or obtain these rights, and a number of strategically placed airports, especially in Africa and the Azores, have reverted to foreign countries.

The only way in which the state department can make amends for past shortsightedness is to pursue separate negotiations with the countries where we require landing facilities. We cannot institute regular service and meet the challenge of European competition from government flag lines until landing rights are acquired. Inasmuch as private commercial lines are to fly the transocean routes for America, they must be given all the assistance of which the state department is capable, and with as little delay as possible.

STEPS GOING UP

The faces of Chicago's railroad presidents may have been red when the gentlemen read in THE TRIBUNE that Montreal has shown them the way to handle passengers with ease and comfort in its new central station. Escalators carry the incoming passengers up 47 feet from train platforms to street level without forcing them to take a step. Floor level train platforms save further climbing. Altho war time train traffic has been extremely heavy, the escalators permit egress without any appearance of crowding.

The escalators in Montreal are reversible, but the Canadian National railroad intends to install an additional battery to handle downward passenger movement. Cork insulation thruout the building and track network represents another progressive innovation. The rumble of trains is inaudible even in the station concourse.

America has won a reputation for getting out in front in most fields of engineering and design. The war, which conclusively demonstrated our technical superiority in every step leading up to the final triumphant development of the atomic bomb, has shown that the reputation is merited. Chicago's railroad terminals, with their outmoded accommodations which cause discomfort to the passengers, are out of key with the times. None of them at present provides escalator service, and the only road which has discussed such installations for the future is the North Western. The La Salle street and Roosevelt road stations also badly require it, and the Union station would be improved by it. They ought to make it as easy as they can for their passengers.

PEARL HARBOR BROUGHT UP TO DATE

Sen. Ferguson is right in saying that there can be no further justification for continued postponement of a full and frank investigation into responsibility for the disaster at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. For almost four years now the onus has been borne by Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific fleet at the time of the attack, and by Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time. The threat of court martial has been held over them ever since they were forced into retirement. The statute of limitations has been extended from time to time so that eventually some one may be brought to account.

It was a commission appointed by the late President Roosevelt, under the direction of Justice Roberts of the Supreme court, which nominated Kimmel and Short as the scapegoats. Later, army and navy boards of inquiry made independent investigations, the findings of which have never been disclosed. Military security was advanced in justification of this policy of concealment. Sen. Walsh, chairman of the naval affairs committee, has informed Secretary of the Navy Forrestal that "military expediency" no longer can be seriously pleaded as a reason for suppressing these reports. It is clear that the time has come to bring the whole story into the open.

All along there have been substantial grounds for believing that the ultimate responsibility for what happened at Pearl Harbor would reflect upon the capacity and course of conduct pursued by officers on the executive level of the civilian government, and that the specific failure of the commanders on the spot was the result of the neglect and shortsightedness of those in Washington. For this reason the persistent delay in bringing the facts of Pearl Harbor into the open on the assigned ground of national security has never commanded any degree of conviction from the public.

Now that the last pretext for evasion has been removed by the reduction of Japan, it should be demanded that the story of Pearl Harbor be fully developed before the proper judicial or investigatory body. If the names of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short have been unjustifiably blackened it is just that they now be exonerated. If culpability can be traced that should be done, even if the trail leads to the highest office in the land.

The hearing would be a sign of our strength as a nation, our dedication to fairness and truth. It would be a demonstration that the principle of equal justice under law governs all alike, without fear and without favor. The vitality of this Republic consists in its adherence to the belief that the nation's business is the business of all the people and that nothing that can be brought into the light should be permitted to hide evilly in the shadows.

DDT AND MOSQUITOES

[Hartford, Conn., Courant]

Those hopeful souls who see in DDT an immediate emancipation from the attack of bloodthirsty mosquitoes have been given pause by the futile efforts to wipe out the famed Jersey king-size mosquito, known to all as tops in his class. This warfare against these B-29 mosquitoes has not been entirely successful. It appears that there is a submarine model invulnerable to aerial attack. Time and time again two-legged humans have laid their sticks of DDT right on their targets and time and time again, with plenty of Jersey bounce, the enemy has reappeared, apparently none the worse for wear and tear.

Thwarted scientists now assert that the results are not entirely successful because some species lay their eggs under water, safe from assaults from other insects and from that biggest enemy of all, man. In this war between man and the Culicidae family there is no assurance whatever that the issue will be conclusively decided. Successful defenses in warfare inevitably bring new offensive weapons, and there will doubtless be torpedo attacks on the underwater breeds.

To offset this, however, is the survival quality of this greatest of all pests. For generations man has swatted and swiped at them, but still they come on, year after year, in more numerous quantities than ever. With all due respect to DDT and the resourcefulness of science, we're putting our money on the Jersey giants who are currently saying in effect, "Gnats to science."

AMONG THEIR SOUVENIRS

While waiting for the Japanese to make up their minds and swallow the bitter pill in a jigger of emperor sirup, this column studied a dispatch from Henry Wales in Berlin, dated Aug. 11. He disclosed that the Russians had lifted 200 tons of ancient Greek sculpture out of the American zone, and were being asked or told to put that stuff back where they found it. This large project in souvenir-hunting involved building material called the Pergamon frieze, which formed the central exhibit in a museum of Greek art.

• • •

These are sculptures that differ from the serene, familiar style of Athenian carving. They came from a flourishing capital city of Greek culture in Asia Minor, Pergamum or Pergamon as you choose, and they illustrate an Asiatic phase of Hellenic civilization. The numerous figures on the huge frieze, carved in high relief, are in violent emotional action. Pergamon seems to have been a city of dynamic spirit. Perhaps it was the Chicago of the ancient Greek world.

• • •

Extensive survivals of Hellenistic art in Pergamon [now a Turkish town named Bergama] were discovered by a German archaeologist named Carl Humann, and excavated by himself and others in 1875-'86, by arrangement with the Turkish government. The removal of the great frieze of the Altar of Zeus to Berlin was by purchase. A temporary museum for this and other acquisitions from Asiatic sites was built in 1902. The present Pergamon, probably shattered now, was completed about 15 years ago.

• • •

The theme of the sculptures on the frieze is a furious battle between the gods of Olympus pantheon and the giants of the earth. The work was inspired by a victory over the Gauls about 200 B. C., after which Attalus, ruler of Pergamon assumed the rank of king.

• • •

Pergamon is described in the New Testament [Revelation, ii.] as "where Satan's seat is." Furthermore, this message is conveyed to its inhabitants: "Repent, or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them [pernicious doctrines] with the sword of my mouth."

PRELUDE TO AUTUMN

There is a fragrance in the air today
That hints of fall, an aromatic brew
Of no mean potency, prepared anew
Each year by Earth. Determined to be gay,
She'll hide her grief at summer's death like some Old crone who in her mirror hates to see
Her haggard countenance, and hurriedly
Bedecks herself with brilliant hues. A crumb
Of youth—she guards it jealously; while to
Her lips she lifts the cup—a nectar not Too sweet, a scent of grapes half-ripe and hot
Beneath the sun, a spiraled whiff of blue
From dying bonfires. Flirting with the breeze,
She will not see the slowly falling leaves.

Small Boy's Attic Bedroom

My boyhood sleeping hours were spent in a small iron bedstead in the center of the attic. Around the bed stood discarded dress forms, lamps, marble-top tables, immigrant trunks, old clothes, and bundles of books and newspapers. In the dim lamplight they were transformed into ships, castles, dungeons, and whatever a boy's imagination could conjure up.

In the spring mornings it was nice to lie a little longer in bed and see the new green of spring painting the treetops and prairies. How fresh and sweet the air as it drifted thru the opened windows of the dusty attic!

Summertime found the attic stifling, with a dry, dusty heat that pinched your nose and burned your eyes. But by night it redeemed itself, for the cool breezes fanned the air and made you feel that you might be in a grotto.

When the crazy quilt appeared with the feather bedding, it wasn't long until winter. It was a mighty snug berth then. Nick Carter and other dime novel characters almost became flesh and blood people as I guardedly read them in the light of the smoky kerosene lamp. I doused the lamp quickly when Ma's tread was heard on the rickety bottom step. She always asked, "Are you asleep, son?" I always replied, "Yes, Ma, I am!" She heaved a sigh of relief and quietly closed the door. I, too, sighed silently, relit the lamp, and returned to Nick Carter until my tired eyes unwillingly closed.

CURFEW HOUR

All gentlefolk, please walk with care,
Brush not the white phlox, hushed in prayer;
Stir not the red phlox, dreaming still,
Or breathe its fragrance, if you will;
Do not disturb each dew-strung grass,
These ropes of cobwebs do not pass.
This is the garden's curfew hour
When one dusts sleep upon each flower;
The fireflies swing their lanterns green
Below the window, past the screen;
The bee sleeps in a closed flower bell,
The watchman signals now all's well!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

P. C. asks: "Can a veteran apply for training under the GI bill wherever he pleases, or must he make application and take the training in the state in which he was inducted?"

Application for the training may be filed with the veterans' administration in any state, and the veteran may go to any school of his choice, provided the school will accept him.

I. D. asks: "Are sailors who participated in invasion landings entitled to wear the bronze arrowhead awarded to soldiers?"

No. The bronze arrowhead is authorized by the war department for members of the army. Other insignia has been authorized for naval personnel who took part in invasions.

T. F. asks: "Will a discharged veteran have to convert his national service life insurance policy immediately after discharge? How can premiums be paid after a man has been released from service?"

Veterans have eight years to convert their national service life insurance policies. After discharge they must make payments directly to the veterans' administration, which handles all government insurance.

DISTRESS FROM LOW BLOOD SUGAR

THE amount of sugar in our blood is influenced chiefly by what we eat and the insulin output of the pancreas. The diabetic, for example, manufactures too little of this hormone to burn up his carbohydrates. In consequence, sugar piles up in his blood. Occasionally the opposite situation exists and the percentage drops below the normal range. This is known as "hypoglycemia." In these cases the pancreas apparently is overactive and produces an overabundance of its secretions.

Ordinarily the effects are exhibited 2 to 4 hours after taking nourishment. This peculiar timing is due to the fact that after we consume carbohydrates, along with other elements, sugar is absorbed rapidly into the circulation. If we were to make a test we would note a marked elevation. When this occurs, the pancreas is signaled to give off insulin to use up the excess. In the average person, just the right quantity is furnished and the sugar in the vital fluid falls to a respectable level. But in hypoglycemia, a more definite decline follows so that within a few hours the stores are reduced enormously.

Our tissues usually tolerate the deficiency fairly well with one exception, and that is the brain. It manifests its displeasure by displaying a number of symptoms, mainly of nervous origin. Because they are so bizarre, the true source of trouble is often missed. In mild depletions the victim may develop weakness, irritability, anxiety, and hunger. Some become extremely nervous and shaky, with excessive perspiration. As the proportion decreases, fatigue and dizziness are not uncommon.

Once in a while a sufferer has been taken to a police station charged with drunkenness because he was weaving about the street in a daze. He may actually have been imbibing but not enough to precipitate the manifestations described. What probably happened was that he had been standing at the bar long after his last drink and had neglected to eat. The result was a diminished blood sugar content.

Many of these individuals experience severe abdominal or chest pain. Distress in the vicinity of the diaphragm may be indistinguishable from appendicitis, gall bladder disease, or duodenal ulcer. When discomfort is located in the chest it may be confused with angina pectoris; others complain of palpitation, choking in the throat, and dullness in the head.

Fats and proteins contain a type of sugar which burns more slowly than that found in starches. Hence a diet rich in these elements is recommended. Carbohydrates, on the other hand, are utilized quickly and this stimulates the secretion of insulin which, in turn, draws sugar from the blood. With many, more frequent meals will solve the problem. A piece of candy or a glass of orange juice will banish the symptoms temporarily but, unless the patient eats within a short time, a recurrence is to be expected. As a rule, by bringing the blood sugar up to normal limits, and keeping it there, the victim is comfortable and able to carry on routine activities.

TINGLING

Miss A. G. writes: Why does my leg go to sleep as soon as I cross it? Is it due to poor circulation? I am 30 years of age.

REPLY

This phenomenon is due to pressure on the nerves, and is more common in those who have fibers close to the surface. Relief will come by changing the position of the affected extremity.

SUMMER DISORDERS

W. E. writes: What is the difference between heat stroke and sunstroke?

REPLY

In heat exhaustion, the temperature is elevated only a few degrees, the skin is moist, and the victim is extremely weak. With sunstroke, the temperature may reach 106 degrees, the skin is dry and flushed, and headache is violent. Of course, there are all degrees of both disorders.

WATER AND WEIGHT

S. E. L. writes: What proportion does water constitute in body weight?

REPLY

Almost two-thirds of the adult human body is water. Our internal organs and cells are constantly bathed in this liquid. We cannot function without it.

REPLY

Peace, It's Wonderful

And then there was the Chicago husband who bought his wife a platinum fox cape. She returned it because she said it wasn't practical.

Understatement

Under the now defunct Churchill regime, unemployment compensation for men in England was $4.80 a week. H. S. S. says now he knows why they called it the Conservative government.

Proper Now?

Do you suppose it is all right now to mention the marine censor who deleted from a news account of the invasion of Guam the phrase "and the rockets' red glare"? Secret stuff, he said. Security. And to mention the memorable argument in Washington with a land based marine colonel [of public relations] who deleted from an eyewitness account of Tarawa the statement that the marines in the landing boats going in were sea-sick? "A marine is never sea-sick!" the colonel roared. "A marine is a sea soldier!" Secret stuff, he said. Security. If the Japs knew American marines became sea-sick, they would have a secret weapon. He won, too. And to wonder, innocently, what Mayor La Guardia ever did with the 10,000 helmets he ordered for the bombing of New York? The helmets came in midget size. And to wonder if the bolts of yard goods thrown out of New York windows to celebrate the final peace last week included the 10,000 yards run off early in the war by one manufacturer? He had planned to imprint the material with the Morse code V [for victory] . . . —. Instead, it came out in reverse: — . . . which is the Morse B [for bictory].

The U. S. N. R. Rejoices

Feeling between the officers of the regular navy and the naval reserve has been as sweetly high during the war thus has just passed as it has been in other wars. A few weeks ago, when the end of this one seemed to be approaching, a number of the U. S. N. R. boys in the Pacific, who with peace anticipate a joyous return to civilian life, decided to take delicate revenge on their arch enemies, the regular navy boys, who, war or peace, stick with the ships. They did this by means of a memorandum addressed to officers of the regular navy. Subject: Transfer of regular navy officers to the naval reserve.

Peace was not far off, the memorandum set forth. Thus, it behooved the regular navy men to consider seriously the proposition of a possible precarious navy career as opposed to nice old civilian life, comforts of which were listed as: Satisfaction derived from following an interesting and useful profession; pride in living an independent and nonparasitic life; opportunity for raising a family whom you will recognize without an instant's hesitation; life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness so foreign to regular navy officers. In arriving at an answer to this problem, the memo stated, regular navy officers could be assured of equal opportunity with each other and with pre-war and war time civilians for obtaining employment, for promotion, and in all other respects.

Each regular navy officer was requested to answer the following questions no later than July 31:

1. Do you have any definite assurance of promotion. Why not?
2. If transferred to the naval reserve, do you feel that you could perform all the duties of a civilian? Why not?
3. Have you found it difficult to assimilate civilian life when exposed to it?
4. Would you consider becoming a civilian if civilians will accept you?
5. If "No" to [4], there ain't no hope for you in this world.

ENGLAND'S RUN-DOWN ECONOMY

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 13—Your editorial of Aug. 8, "Is Britain Solvent?" is excellent, but it stresses only the liquid asset position of England in evaluating her solvency. I agree with your analysis so far as it goes, but wish to emphasize that England's long time economic prospects should also be duly considered in making any financial agreements with her for the future. For the long term, her ability to manufacture and sell [export] goods is decisive. From that angle, her present liquid assets represent only a drop in the bucket.

She always wins wars, usually with the help of others, but emerges from each war in a greatly weakened economic condition with her productive system in a bad way. To be sure, she did recover from the Napoleonic wars, because there fell to her lot soon after a practical world monopoly in the production and sale of manufactured goods. This gave her enormous profits which were enhanced by the exploitation of the laborers in some of her own factories. In this way she accumulated the enormous funds for foreign investments which in recent years have almost dwindled away.

When the turn of the century came, she had shown that she was unable to withstand the competition of the United States and the European continent. And now, upon emerging from the present war, she would like to have the United States join her in another monopolistic venture by the establishment of an enormous world-wide system of cartels. Apparently she cannot or will not rationalize her industrial system so that she can compete with other manufacturing nations on an even plane. She seems to be able to prosper only if she can maintain in most fields a near monopolistic position.

As an example, she has been working now for several years on the establishment of an international cocoa monopoly. Her west African possessions produce considerable amounts of cocoa beans. So do parts of South and Central America. England wishes to create a world combine in this field for the exploitation of the cocoa bean plantation workers below and the United States consumers on top. A number of economists believe that, in view of these facts, the long term economic position of England is much more precarious than her immediate situation, which can be, to some extent, mitigated by loans. But as time passes, they will turn into uncollectible debts, just as they did after the last war.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 14—A friend of mine has thought up a most interesting card game which he wishes to place on the market. For his protection, is it preferable that the game be patented or copyrighted? The equipment consists of special cards and a sheet of rules.

P. H.

Ordinarily it is difficult to obtain monopoly protection for a game. If it employs unique equipment, one may patent the equipment, but in most cases about all that can be done is to trademark the name and copyright the rules and obviously neither of these devices gives basic protection.

When Pvt. Richard K. Wheeler, 20, of 4848 Argyle st., returns home from Philippine battlefields, he intends to catch up with his reading of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. His father, Harry, disclosed yesterday that he has been saving the papers for him since he entered the army on Aug. 1, 1943. Pvt. Wheeler, serving with the Wildcat division, is a sharpshooter and has won the combat infantryman's badge. THE TRIBUNE is being mailed to his brother, Lt. Robert H. Wheeler, 24, who still is in Europe.

RHINE COMBAT GIs STORM OVER DUTY IN PACIFIC

95th Division Cites 150 Fighting Days

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 19 [Special]—Protests from troops of the 95th division against being sent to Japan for occupation duty reached a crescendo today as a bombardment of telegrams to newspapers and congressmen gave indication of a concerted effort by the GIs to arouse public opinion.

Many members of the division used week-end passes to go to New Orleans, where they visited newspaper offices and cited the division's combat record in Europe in answer to yesterday's war department statement that the 95th was among the last to get into action in Europe and among the first to be returned to the United States for redeployment.

Maj. Gen. Harry Twaddle, division commander, verified a statement given to a New Orleans newspaper by Pvt. Thomas B. Schlesinger of Cambridge, Mass., that the division landed in France last Sept. 15 and went into combat at Metz Oct. 20.

Eight Men Reported AWOL

Gen. Twaddle said the division had 150 "fighting days," and 103 "days in combat without relief."

The general denied reports that many of the soldiers are absent without leave from Camp Shelby, where the division is undergoing redeployment training. He said 2,000 had passes to leave camp over the week end.

"Only about eight men are on the AWOL list, and this is about normal," he said.

[Letters and telegrams were received by The Tribune from members of the 95th division, protesting their "railroading into the occupation of Japan." One father of a 95th division GI, among several to visit The Tribune offices, said he had talked by telephone to his son last night at Camp Shelby. He said the 21 year old Chicago private told him 1,600 members of the division were AWOL and that "you will have an AWOL son unless some action is taken." An anonymous telephone call from a veteran at Albuquerque, N. M., prepaid for $1.60 for three minutes, was received by The Tribune city desk in protest of Pacific shipment of European veterans.]

In statements to New Orleans newspapers and in wires to other newspapers thruout the country and to members of congress, the troopers asserted it is unfair to send them to the Pacific after their fighting record while soldiers who never have been overseas are left in this country.

A telegram sent to the Associated Press in Washington stated: "We are beginning to wonder what has happened to the democracy for which we fought. We are asking the question why is it necessary to send veterans to replace veterans when there are many men with no combat time staying in this country."

Served With British

Other telegrams emphasized that the division had performed occupation duties in the British sector for about six weeks after V-E day before being returned to the United States.

Schlesinger's account of the 95th's service record was as follows:

"We were about the 26th of more than 60 combat divisions to hit the fighting line. Forty others followed us. We left the United States Aug. 6, 1944, spent one month in England, landed in France Sept. 15, and went into combat Oct. 20 with Gen. Patton's 3d army at Metz.

"We spearheaded the 3d army to the Saar river, crossed the Saar and captured a bridge intact and entered Saarlautern in the Siegfried line. Late in January [1945] we left the line at Saarlautern to reënforce the 1st army's break-thru at Julich.

Cleaned Up Buhr Pocket

"The 95th division infantry relieved a British division in Holland while the division artillery supported the 84th division's crossing of the Roer river. Our infantry and artillery were reunited after crossing the Roer, and we fought to the Rhine. We cleaned out one-third of the Ruhr pocket."

The war department has reported the division is being screened to eliminate men over 38 and men with excessive combat service from overseas duty. It said the 95th was one of the divisions requested by Gen. MacArthur for use as occupation forces.

The Iowa Poll

FAVOR TAX CUTS, CONTINUED PRICE & WAGE CONTROLS

DES MOINES, IOWA—A survey by THE IOWA POLL just before victory over Japan indicates that over three out of five Iowans with opinions believe business and/or personal tax cuts will help provide more jobs; of the entire cross section, 75% feel that continuing price controls and 67% think that continuing wage controls will help us get back to normal.

Asked if tax reductions on business profits and personal incomes after V-J day will help to provide more jobs, Iowans' reactions, separated by occupation appear to be:

	Agree	Disagree	No Opinion
Professional	56%	28%	16%
Mgrs. & props.	62	24	14
Clerical & sales	57	20	23
Service	44	23	33
Skilled	40	34	26
Semi-skilled	44	33	23
Unskilled	27	27	46
Farmers	48	28	24
Farm labor	44	27	29
TOTAL	48%	27%	25%

Of those who agree that tax reductions would create jobs, 28% want business taxes reduced first, another 28% want personal taxes reduced first, and 40% want both taxes reduced—a total of 96%.

Price and Wage Controls

When asked whether some OPA price controls should be continued while we are getting back to normal, Iowans replied:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Yes	75%	80%	75%	68%
No	16	13	16	20
No opinion	9	7	9	12

To a similar question on wage and salary controls, Iowa opinion divides:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Yes	67%	69%	70%	63%
No	17	19	13	16
No opinion	16	13	18	21

To prevent inflation, many thought some controls essential.

Looking at Hollywood
By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 19—The Broadway Hit "Pal Joey," which made Gene Kelly, is now being polished up for dancer Mare Platt at Columbia. Platt, a find from "Oklahoma!" clicked with Rita Hayworth in his first "Tonight and Every Night." This is his first major break with a role expressly for his talent. . . . One of the hits of Metro's "Ziegfeld Follies" is Fred Astaire's "Limehouse Blues." His acting is getting as many raves as his dancing. This prompts me to remind his bosses once again they've got a sure fire dramatic actor in Fred who needs never dance again if he gets the right screen plays. Fred is expecting his mother and sister Adele Astaire Cavendish for a visit any day now.

First Hand Copy on the Peace

Haroun Al Raschid used to wander unrecognized thru the streets of Bagdad to see for himself what made with the people. Darryl Zanuck was curious to know how the public felt the night peace was declared. He spent some time mingling with the crowds at Hollywood and Vine—the hot spot of the celebration—and got home all in one piece. And Merle Oberon and husband Lucien Hubbard hied them to Cole Porters—Merle lugging along her favorite pink champagne—to celebrate.

Thru the Keyhole

Steve Crane's a favorite victim for publicity twosomes. He has been appearing stag for some time now. . . . If Minna Wallis is considering another operation, patients at Cedars of Lebanon hope they'll be tipped off before she and her screams, that were heard for blocks, arrive. . . . Joseph Schenck's chauffeur, oddly enough, is named Robert Taylor. . . . When Dave Rose left for New York, Jane Nigh promptly became an item with trumpeter Leonard Sues. . . . Estelle Taylor has gone author with a screen play on the life of Jack Dempsey. She thinks John Wayne is the man for it.

Hit More than the Hay

Came on the "Hit the Hay" set at Columbia in time to see Gloria Holden rush up to Judy Canova and hiss: "You glorified yokel!" Whereupon Judy hauled off and fairly knocked her teeth down her throat. At the finish of the scene the director smiled, said: "Good! By the way, Gloria, you were late, so I didn't have a chance to introduce you to Judy." Gloria said: "Just as well. If she'd do this to a perfect stranger I'd hate to think what'd happen to an intimate." . . . It was a rough day for all the girls. On the "Stars and Spars" set Janet Blair was doing a scene where she shampoos Jeff Donnell's hair. Most of the soap was in Jeff's eyes for all four takes. When the director finally okayed the scene, Jeff dropped into a chair exhausted. "Hurry," said the director, "get over to the beauty parlor and get your hair done for the next scene." And some think movie making is a cinch.

For Ticonderoga Air Men

Maureen O'Hara has been hostess for brother-in-law Lt. Kenny Price and his 60 air forces buddies, all of whom were aboard the carrier Ticonderoga when it was hit by Jap suicide planes. Maureen dug up 60 studio beauties and gave the boys a big night at Cocoanut Grove. Husband Lt. Will Frice is back in Washington editing some navy film. . . . They're hanging Connie Gilchrist—remember, she's the comic slavey in "Junior Miss"? The Metropolitan museum's putting Connie's portrait by Emil Ganso on the line next to two canvases of her aunt by Whistler. Her aunt, also a Connie Gilchrist, was one of the famous actresses of the '80s. . . . Chet Lauck—Lum to you—is laying a cornerstone; not the usual kind. This is on his Las Vegas ranch which, it seems, is knee-deep in the history of the old west. . . . And Mary Brian, now in the South Pacific, landed home for two weeks, then went right back for a four month stay.

Behind the Screen

If you were one of the kind that made umbrella stands out of cigar wrappings or screens out of old race track tickets, you'll understand Ann Richard's frenzy to get a library screen from unused ration stamps. She's well on her way since she collected all the gas rationing books from her friends and glued them down tight. Now Ann hears rumors that gas rationing may be resumed. She wails: "Can you picture me lugging that screen to a station every time I need a few gallons of gas?"

Invalid Asks for Radio to Lighten Life

[Sally Joy Brown Department Activities are Sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mr. M. is a wheel chair invalid who has a spinal ailment and is cafed for in an infirmary west of the city. He, as well as his fellow patients in the ward, are engulfed in lonesomeness because there is little to distract or amuse them. He urgently has requested a table model radio as a means of breaking the monotony of the long days and permitting them to feel again a kinship with the outside world. Since the infirmary generates its own power, only a DC radio can be used.

Mr. K., a young man 20 years old, who is confined in a local sanitarium, has defeated lonesomeness and boredom and derived great pleasure from collecting and classifying all types of butterflies. Now after three long years of enforced inactivity, further pursuit of his hobby, which has assumed impressive proportions of a serious study, will be retarded and possibly indefinitely postponed unless other collectors will be willing to donate a few of their duplicate specimens or related materials to him. His name and address may be had upon request.

Mrs. R., who lives north of the loop, has requested our aid in obtaining a typewriter for her blind son, who learned the use of one in school. He is eager to facilitate his class assignments in the coming term by having a machine of his own. Illness has made deep inroads on the small family income, and a purchase of this kind therefore is prohibitive. Mrs. R. will call anywhere for one.

Camp Algonquin Presents the Biggest Show on Earth

BY JUNE GESERICK

The beautiful Fox river valley rang with laughter and applause yesterday when underprivileged children and mothers vacationing at United Charities' Camp Algonquin presented their annual circus.

The show culminated many days of preparation, during which mothers and counselors sewed and pasted while youngsters rehearsed their parts behind closed doors so that they could "surprise everybody."

Parents and friends who came from Chicago to see the circus were seated in a semi-circle on the grass just as the pre-show parade wound its way down a hill to the river front. Kindergarten aged boys banged tambourines and one 5 year old beat a drum so enthusiastically that he pounded a hole in it.

There were make-believe bears and hula girls, girls with paper elephant ears, and a sultan with his harem. The awed silence of the youthful audience first was broken when a 12 foot dragon, created by mothers who carried polka dot cotton cloth over their heads, approached the ring.

Ring Master Lois Thompson, a counselor from McPherson, Kas., ballyhooed the acts as they were presented.

A dozen kindergarten boys and girls catapulted themselves into the ring on lath hobby horses, which they rode recklessly in and out of formation. One tiny blond rider was thrown from his wooden steed, but after digging his fist into his eyes to keep the tears back, he remounted and rode away.

Four clowns somersaulted across the grass while a low-voiced lad in a cowboy suit put a companion, dressed like a dog, thru his paces.

Carol, having her palm read by Mrs. W. at camp circus, appears skeptical. [TRIBUNE Photos]

Performers hurried thru their acts so that they might see the rest of the show. Robert and Annette, each 7 years old, stood thru most of the production because it was difficult for them to sit down in the dress they shared as "the two headed woman."

The shrill laughter of children was punctuated occasionally by the popping of balloons, which were given as prizes in side-show turtle races and weight judgings. Mrs. Astrid Save, director of the camp, smiled happily as she viewed the scenes about her.

"Some of the children forgot their routines and a few other things go wrong," she said, "but to the folks here it's the biggest show on earth."

Child's Traits Often Changed by School Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Kindergarten days usually are delightful to little children—after they get used to being away from home and mother. They learn to be and play with others of their own age, to work together in groups, and it's all very absorbing and interesting. But this attitude toward school doesn't always continue. Let me quote from one letter from a troubled mother:

"In kindergarten and thru the first, second, and third grades, Jack loved school and did good work, but now he is in the fourth grade things have changed. He's inattentive, his grades aren't nearly as high, and his teacher has had to interview us about him.

"Jack is perfectly well, full of pep—too full of it, at times—and we can't understand what has happened. His home life and activities are the same as always; he has an excellent teacher, and we see no reason why this change has come about . . . "

When your boy or girl goes to school there are almost sure to be surprises in store for you.

They may come in the first few years, but they are pretty likely to come—those times when the teacher has to tell you things about your child that you can hardly believe—when she tells you of qualities in him that you never knew existed.

If the things you hear are favorable, so much the better. If you learn that instead of being troublesome at school as he is at home, your child is amenable, don't be too surprised. I have seen that happen time and again, often with children who are too much the center of attraction and entirely spoiled by parents and relatives. And frequently, too, with children who have a great respect for authority, those who are impressed by the law and order of the schoolroom.

But you often get quite opposite reports. If you hear things that trouble you, don't be too aghast.

The teacher may tell you that your child is a disturbing element in the classroom. You may find on investigation that your son or daughter has discovered that the faces he makes or the antics he goes thru are highly amusing to the other children, and because he loves fun he performs whenever an opportunity presents itself. Or you may find that he disturbs his class because of the unquenchable spirits he possesses.

If you have complaints from school don't think your child has had unpleasant qualities lying dormant in him that you didn't know existed. Just realize that in most instances it is the complete change from freedom to confinement, or from individual to mass association, that is usually responsible for it. You may have to talk the matter over seriously with your child if grades begin to fall, and make him see the error of his ways.

Mrs. Ralph Hamill Jr. and Richard D. Allen Engaged

BY JUDITH CASS

THE pleasant news that Mr. and Mrs. William B. Brown of Wheaton told their friends over the week-end concerns their daughter, Mrs. Ralph C. Hamill Jr., and Richard D. Allen, who are engaged and will be married in October. The engagement was celebrated on Saturday at a cocktail party in the Lake Forest home which Mrs. Hamill is sharing with Mrs. Irving Kreutz while Lt. [j. g.] Kreutz is on duty in the Pacific.

Mrs. Hamill, who made her debut in 1939, attended Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn., and Smith college. She has a young daughter, Janet Fairlie, whose father, Lt. Hamill, was killed two years ago in Alaska. Mr. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ami Allen of St. Charles, recently was discharged from the army air forces, having served as a captain in England, Africa, Sicily, and Italy. He attended Elgin academy.

One of Mrs. Hamill's sisters, Mrs. Dudley Jessopp, and one of her brothers, Capt. Keith Brown of the army, were able to be present at Saturday's party, as they live here. Missing the festivities were Lt. Gardner Brown, stationed with the navy in Washington, D. C., and Miss Ruth Brown, who is with the American Red Cross in England.

Fashion Art Hits New Top in Fur Coats

BY REA SEEGER

When two famous dressmakers combine creative resources and work with fine furs, the results are, as expected, sensational. In a fall and winter collection on parade recently there were 30 distinctive new models, each as much of a creation in beautiful silhouette, in detail, and in high fashion, as any individualized costume in wool or satin.

Using fine pelts like fine fabrics, both Sophie and Omar Kiam presented fur coats for the discerning woman, the woman who desires and demands that a fur coat be suavely fashioned to flatter without being a bulky coat just to keep the owner warm and snug in the winter months.

These individual designed models are a joy to appraise. Beautifully moired broadtail—skilfully worked, cut, and finished with the smooth fluidity of heavy, lustrous satin—make dress parade coats of top elegance. Accented with scarf and muff of rare white-face silver fox, you see in them the essence of luxury without ostentation.

The short persian lamb jacket with the swank vee silhouette across the shoulders is the youngest and jauntiest fur jacket designed. There is a half belt at the back. The sleeves are simple and straight, and the neck line is soft and curved. The length is short, sharply cut a little above the knees.

Breathtakingly beautiful wild and ranch mink coats are worthy of the opulent fashion importance always lavished on mink. One outstanding creation is made in a long Chinese coat silhouette with soft shoulders and wide sleeves, like a mandarin coat. A stunning ink-black fox coat has the same sort of sleeves as the mandarin coat but the coat itself is only a long hip length.

While most of the glamor models are long and luxurous, especially the minks, there are several unusual shorter models just as exquisitely designed and just as distinctive as the long coats. Two dramatic stoles, one of Russian stone marten and one of rare platina, complete the parade of dramatic new fur fashions designed by the two top flight designers, who are Americans.

Three Soloists and a Quartet Appear as Ravinia and Grant Park Call It a Season

Ravinia and Grant park called it a season yesterday. If you were both insatiable and in a hurry, you could hear the Pro Arte Quartet sign off the 10th summer of the north shore festival and still arrive downtown to join the other 40,000 who heard Nicolai Malko launch the farewell concert of the 11th season, at which the Grant Park Symphony orchestra had three soloists, including Carol Smith, contralto, Dorothy Staiger, soprano, and its first cellist, Margaret Cree Evans.

Miss Staiger was the only one I had not heard before, and while I never quite trust my ears to a microphone, she has something worth encouraging. She is a handsome girl on the Junoesque pattern and, at least in amplification, her lyric soprano is provocative in color, with a touch of the voluptuous, as well as a sense of drama that understands the value of restraint. She sang Debussy's Air de Lia from "L'Enfant Prodigue" with a true expression of its emotional impact, and added Bizet's "Ouvre Ton Coeur" deftly, smiling as if at some private joke she might share with you any minute. Like most young singers, she has a lot to learn, but unlike many young singers, she has what you can't get along without, a voice with individual character.

Miss Smith, who won the Chicago Music Festival contest a year ago, possesses one of those smooth, warm contraltos that rest so easily on the listening ear. It has the size and range to go places, as she proved in the sudden authority of the cadenza of Delilah's "Amour, Viens Aider" from Saint-Säens' saga of the luckless Samson. But neither she nor her voice is quite grown up yet, and tho the encored "Danny Boy" was simply done, it was not what it will be when she has full command of her talents.

Miss Evans, whose only concession to solo appearances is a deepening of her dimples, played Massenet's "Elegie" expertly, then rejoined the orchestra as if nothing at all had happened. Mr. Malko gave us a beguiling performance of Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker," tho you haven't really heard the celesta unless it has a microphone at its elbow. Rossini's "L'Italiana in Algeri" was rather more virile than sparkling; Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody" could not make itself into a masterpiece; the Shostakovich "Polka" was too loudly amplified for its best effect, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Dance of the Buffoons" was well enough done, tho it does seem frustrating to a good orchestra to subject its work to inferior amplification.

At Ravinia, the Pro Arte Quartet gave us Mozart's "Hunt" Quartet, Beethoven's third "Rasoumowsky" and the Ravel, the latter evoking in the first and second movements the best playing I heard from this group, with the possible exception of the Malipiero. The thin tone, the wiry dexterity, had a better affinity for this type of music. Yesterday's Mozart was at its best in the delicately spun menuetto, and what I heard of the Beethoven convinced me again that the jewel of the present Pro Arte Quartet is the one remaining member of the original group, the sensitive and gifted violinist, Germain Prévost.

Concert by the Pro Arte Quartet [Rudolf Kolisch and Albert Bahler, violins; Germain Prevost, viola; Emil Friedlaender, cello]. Presented at Ravinia Sunday afternoon, Aug. 19, 1945. The program: Quartet in B flat major, Köchel 458..
.....Mozart
Quartet in F major.....Ravel
Quartet in C major, Opus 59, No. 3..
.....Beethoven

Concert by the Grant Park Symphony orchestra, Nicolai Malko, conductor; Dorothy Staiger, soprano; Carol Smith, contralto, and Margaret Cree Evans, cellist, soloists. Presented at the Grant park band shell Sunday evening, Aug. 19, 1945.

2 Invitational Tennis Events Attract Fans

With the end of gasoline rationing, tennis fans can drive to the Exmoor Country club on Sunday or to the Saddle and Cycle on Sept. 9 for two invitational tennis tournaments which will attract sports enthusiasts from all over the city and suburbs. Since invitational tournaments were introduced to Chicago by Louis Volpe Jr., formerly tennis professional at the Exmoor and now of the Saddle and Cycle and the Paradise Inn in Phoenix, Ariz., these events have grown annually in popularity.

This year 20 pairs of players, representing nine private clubs, have entered the annual north shore invitational mixed doubles tournament, which will open at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday at the Exmoor. In addition to last year's winners, Mrs. Franklin G. Clement and Hoyt Smith of the Onwentsia club, other strong combinations that will be matching strength on the courts are Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III, winners in previous years: Mrs. Helen Fulton Shockley and Gair Tourtellot Jr., of the Skokie Country club; Henry N. Rowley and Mrs. John P. Bent of the Onwentsia; Rufus Beach and Miss Josephine Otter of the Evanston; Mrs. C. Benson Dushane Jr. and Ralph E. Ellis of the Saddle and Cycle; Miss Marjory Lindsay and Capt. Francis R. Stanton of the Indian Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams Jr. of the Exmoor.

Luncheon will be served before the matches beside the tree-shaded marquee along the courts. The privileges of the club and an invitation to remain for dinner have been extended to the visiting players. Kenneth G. Ives is chairman of the tournament.

A number of the same players will compete in the other invitational tournament at the Saddle and Cycle, which is holding the event for the third year. Instead of the regular Sunday noon buffet the club will serve an evening buffet supper, to which the visiting players will be invited.

The annual club tournament will start on Sept. 8 at the Saddle and Cycle. Lt. Daniel Freed, who won the title last year, has reported for duty in the Pacific, but a number of the club's best players will be entered, Mr. Ellis and Wells Farnham among them.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Was It Only a Week Ago?

It was an odd week to take a vacation. The decorators were coming. And, the peace was on the way. The decorators arrived ahead of the peace. They moved in so enthusiastically and thoroly there was nothing to do but move out, at least for a few days.

At the office everything had been arranged. Nancy was to starch her perky white collar and take over the column—Nancy, heretofore known as The Voice. For, it is she who answers telephone requests and questions that come to a columnist's desk: "How can I get directions for making a dress form?" . . . "Will you find a paragraph about my aunt that appeared in '42?" . . . "Where can I order greeting cards for my boy friend overseas?" . . . "Is it proper to wear suspenders in the office?" . . . "When letters are typed four days after dictation, how are they dated?"

Amid tense moments of waiting for news of peace the last column before the vacation was written, suggesting that not one of us could foretell how we—and others—might respond when it came. The last line was typed, the last comma added, the desk set in order, and a final pat given to the brown toy horse that stands atop the bookcase.

Was it only a week ago?

Word of Peace

Word of peace did come that week and with it tumult and emotion over an entire nation. But in the little town not far from Chicago where the white collar editor was vacationing, peace came quietly. The bells in the two white-spired churches tolled.

The day had been windy and rainy. A late afternoon sun burst on the freshened earth. The clover was drenched and sweet below the open window—as sweet as the sound of the bells.

"I rang them in 1918," said a middle-aged man gravely, "and now I ring them again." In 1918 two lads tugged at his coat and asked, "Daddy, what are you doing?" Their father explained. He was ringing the bells because the war was over. Both boys, now grown, are overseas.

As elsewhere, grocery stores, markets, and shops closed with impromptu signs tacked on the door: "See you day after tomorrow—war's over!" One or two merrymakers blew horns later in the evening, but it was an exceedingly small number. People talked of their sons, of brothers, nephews, husbands—and of the brave and gentle-hearted family on the hill to which one son will not return. A white collar girl, temporarily working in the village, told of the money she had been saving thru lonely years since her husband left. Now, the long planned future was at hand she scarcely could realize it.

That night the moon was a sliver, but the heavens were full of stars. They hovered incredibly close to earth as tho to throw a blanket over mankind's woe.

Next day everyone spoke of these things: The peace, the beautiful bells, and the closeness of the sky.

'This Nettle Danger'

INSTALMENT XXV

UNEXPECTED DEVELOPMENT

Cairns made it his business to see Jeff Randall the night of the day the sheriff visited the Pitchfork. He was getting disturbed at the course of the investigation into the raid. It had not occurred to him that he would fall under suspicion. Flack was the danger spot. Rumors had reached him that the homesteaders distrusted the man. Sherrill was no fool. He knew that somebody had brought the hat to the Pitchfork, and it would not take him long to decide on Flack as the man. Under pressure the spy would break. If the fellow confessed to his part in the conspiracy Cairns knew he would be thru not only at the Pitchfork but in this whole district.

From Randall the worried man got small comfort. The owner of the Diamond Trail was concerned only for his own safety. Not only would the truth influence the report of Barnard; his position as leader of the cattlemen would be lost forever.

"You've sure made a mess of it," Jeff snarled. "I might of known you'd put yore clumsy foot in a hornet's nest."

Cairns flared up. "You botched this job. It was yore idea. It was fool proof, you claimed. Flack is not my man. You picked him. If they hang the raid on me you'll be in it up to yore neck."

Randall did not waste any time arguing this. His mind moved directly to a consideration of the obvious way out. Before he raised his flinty washed-out blue eyes to the Pitchfork foreman he knew exactly what he meant to do.

"Leave this to me. I'll take care of it. Keep yore chin up. Daly won't suspect you. He's the kind of fool who would never believe one of his own men would throw him down. If anything comes up, stand pat on the story you have told. Don't give way an inch."

"What are you going to do?" Cairns asked.

"None of yore business."

After Cairns had gone he sat for a long time huddled in the chair, no expression in his gross hard face. At last he rose and shambled over to the cabin where Quint Milroy slept alone. He tapped on the door, gently.

"Who is it?"

"Jeff Randall. Want to talk with you, Quint."

"In a minute." Milroy had been asleep. He rose, put on his trousers, and buckled the belt around his waist with the butt of the .45 close to his hand, after which he lit a lamp and opened the door.

Randall walked in. "Sorry to waken you, Quint," he said. "Something has come up unexpected."

Milroy closed and bolted the door. He waited in silence, cold eyes fixed on his midnight guest.

The old man sat down and motioned the other to a chair.

"I've got a job for you, Quint," he said bluntly.

Old Jeff lowered his voice almost to a whisper and talked for several minutes. When he had finished, the killer made one comment.

"It will be five hundred dollars," he said.

The ranchman's face showed a pained protest. "Have a heart, Quint. You never had an easier job. No danger and no possible comeback. Everybody will think the homesteaders did it for throwing them down."

"If it is so easy and safe, do it yourself," Milroy suggested.

"Now—now. You know I can't do that, Quint. For you it is just like shooting tame trout in a pond. You are an expert. There isn't a man I would trust to do this quick as I would you."

"The price is still five hundred dollars. Payable in advance."

Randall threw up his hands. "You win. One thing, tho. This has to be done quick."

"How quick?"

"I'd like it done tonight. I know that's rushing you, but it is a hurry job."

The oldtimer shuffled to the door, then turned for another word. "You'll have time to get back before morning. It won't do for you to be seen—or to be away at breakfast time."

The gunman said nothing.

Flack finished washing the dishes and drew the window curtain. Nobody lived within three miles of him. There was not a chance in ten thousand that anybody would be watching him, but he was a careful man and did not believe in taking avoidable risks. After bolting the door he pushed aside the cot, removed a loose board in the floor, and from a recess underneath took a tin box. This he carried to the table and opened. Inside it were a cheap notebook and a small number of bills with a rubber band around them. Most of these were ones, but there were a few fives and two tens.

Out of a hip pocket he drew several more crumpled bills. Lovingly he smoothed them out and put them with the others. He opened the notebook and jotted down a memorandum.

"July 16. That old fox J. R. has trapped B. S. Looks like they have got B. wriggling on a cleft stick."

He replaced the box and its contents in the hiding place.

He looked twice at his fat silver watch, and at exactly eight-thirty rose to make preparations for bed. By nine o'clock he was sound asleep. He dreamed that the tin box was bulging full with bills, many of them of one hundred dollar denomination. When he took them to the bank at Redrock the president, Dean Kilburn, told him they were all counterfeit and that he would send the sheriff to arrest him. Hardly had he reached home before Humphreys came knocking at the door.

To the sound of that knocking he woke up.

Flack sat up in bed, not fully restored from the unhappiness of his dream. "Who's there?" he quavered.

"Quint Milroy," a voice answered. "I'm bringing a message from Jeff Randall."

"From Jeff. What's he want—at this time of night?"

"He wants you to take a little trip for him. Something has come up unexpected, he told me."

Flack put on his trousers and opened the door. "Come in, Quint," he said.

Milroy entered and delivered the message. It roared from the barrel of a .45, and the homesteader collapsed to the floor. The killer struck a match and made sure another shot was not necessary. From a vest pocket he took a paper and pinned it to the nightgown of the dead man. On the note some words were printed roughly by a pencil.

The messenger rose, looked at his victim for a long moment, and left the cabin. He had earned his five hundred dollars.

[Copyright, 1945, By The Chicago Tribune]

A few months ago I did some experimental work with some canned army rations, reporting that some of them had a post-war future, at least in my opinion. Among the products I thought very good were canned ham and sweet potatoes, ham and eggs, and several others. Just now I have received a dissenting opinion. And it comes from a front line soldier.

"I am writing this in the opinion that you don't know beans from bologna when it comes to the rations a soldier has to eat. You say they can be used in civilian life. Well all I can say is that for their own safety no one had better try and feed me that stuff.

"Did you ever try to eat stew, hash, ground meat and spaghetti when they were cold? As for the hamburger and ham and sweet potatoes, I have been in the front lines and I never have seen or heard of them. I'll bet if you tried to feed a soldier that stuff when he comes home he would break anything in sight, including your neck."

The only thing I shall say in my own defense is that I was not suggesting that these foods be served cold, and that I am sorry Pvt. Sowash, author of the letter, never got to taste the ham and sweets. He might have liked them!

Perhaps it's just as well that there aren't as many green apples around as there should be this time of year. We'd be wanting to make pies and sauce all the time, and where should we find the sugar for them? The Illinois Wealthies available make delicious sauce with honey or sirup, however, and if you can spare shortening for pie crust, an apple pie with honey sweetening is very good, too.

Illinois Gravensteins, California Gravensteins and Virginia McIntosh are other apples now coming to market, all in light supply.

Since the ceiling was removed from tomatoes, some of this garden fruit has been selling at ridiculously high prices. It takes a little looking to find tomatoes at reasonable cost, but the homemaker who plans to can tomatoes will do well to shop a bit for them. Some of the local crops haven't been too good.

Small, cucumbers suitable for pickling are available now. "Favorite Pickles and Relishes" is a booklet which contains recipes our readers ask for year after year. The ever popular quick dills and bread and butter pickles are among them, of course. To obtain your copy, send five cents in stamps to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Dr. Kobes to Head U. of I. Crippled Children's Unit

Dr. Raymond B. Allen, executive dean of the Chicago colleges of the University of Illinois, said yesterday that Dr. Herbert R. Kobes will succeed Lawrence J. Linck as director of the division of services for crippled children on Sept. 1. Dr. Kobes is director of medical services in the Maine department of health and welfare.

Thru the Looking Glass

We hope you're taking the precaution to protect your eyes when you're out in the merry summer sunshine. It's all too easy to sow a whole new crop of fine lines about them while you're out acquiring a healthful tan or enjoying a bright day outdoors. Once the lines take hold, it's practically impossible to erase them.

Your favorite, rich eye cream should see 24 hour duty these summer days, particularly if you've passed that 25th birthday.

When you're embarking for a day of golf, swimming, or tennis, pat the cream on generously, working it in lightly and leaving a protecting film spread about the area. It will help to keep the skin soft and supple and if you do squint against the glare of the sun, the resultant lines will have far less chance of becoming permanent fixtures than they might otherwise.

Even if you don't plan to be out of doors all day, it's a good idea to leave a thin coat of cream on the lids and a very sparing bit at the outer edges of the eyes to protect them the little while you may be in the sun's rays. The flattering sheen the lubricant imparts to the lids also makes a neat addition to your beauty tricks.

After any day, bright or not, the wise woman uses an eye cream faithfully at night and if the day has been spent outdoors, she uses it a bit more generously.

Stroke it firmly but gently over the delicate skin, smoothing and soothing it until you can feel the skin relax. While doing this, take time out to do a helpful little facial exercise. Practice looking surprised—pull your eyebrows up and your mouth and chin way down, as if to utter a big "O." It will help smooth away the tiny crinkles and relieve the sensation of tenseness that so often results when the eyes have been subjected to a day of brilliant sunshine.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠9532 ♥4 ♦Q765 ♣J653
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This is not another raise. It is merely a return to the agreed suit, and announces that you have a rather weak raise. If your assist had been a good one, you would at this point be obliged to bid for game. A pass cannot be remotely considered, for your partner's three club bid after spades have been supported is a one round force.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:
♠63 ♥1043 ♦94 ♣KJ9765
What is your response?

A.—Pass. Even the six card suit does not afford sufficient excuse for keeping the bidding open. While in a few isolated cases you might miss something, the possible damage as a result of bidding is far out of proportion to the possible gain. It's the averages that count.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠643 ♥102 ♦965 ♣QJ963
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. Partner's jump overcall is a strong invitation, but not a force. You should be in no mood to accept any invitations with this sad thing.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠954 ♥AKQJ64 ♦A32 ♣K
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 clubs	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	6 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven hearts. Partner has shown the spade control, the king of clubs should solidify his suit and thus provide discards for any losers you may have in spades and diamonds. Remember he made a free bid of two clubs, followed it up with a cue bid and then leaped from four diamonds not to five, but to six hearts.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠Q754 ♥K6 ♦Q95 ♣AK95
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Inasmuch as you have previously limited your hand by simple raise, partner must not interpret this bid as showing unusual strength. But your hand has improved and you should not sign off with a mere return to three spades which partner might pass. After all you had a very sound raise.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠— ♥KJ43 ♦Q10953 ♣A1042
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	1 spade

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand has definite slam possibilities. Unless you make this strong bid, you will find it difficult to persuade partner of your enormous strength, for he will labor constantly under the impression created by your previous pass.

Q. 7—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:
♠K1076 ♥— ♦AJ106 ♣Q9763
What is your response?

A.—Two clubs. It would be poor tactics to respond with one spade for the sake of keeping the bidding low. Actually it would have just the opposite effect. Partner will probably say two hearts, in which case you have to bid three of some other suit. If you respond with two clubs and partner says two hearts you are in position to make the economical bid of two spades with the added advantage of informing partner that you have five clubs and four spades.

Q. 8—Opponent opens with one diamond and you hold:
♠975 ♥AKJ965 ♦A ♣A42
What do you bid?

A.—There is a choice between a double and two hearts. My preference is for the latter. This is a strong invitation to partner to bid if he has anything at all. If he has nothing he may pass, in which case you are just where you belong. I prefer the jump overcall to the double, since it is reasonable to assume that the hand will play in hearts. If partner has a good suit of his own and insists upon it we may support it later. A cue bid, of course, is entirely out of the question, since that would insist upon a game contract.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Miss A. Danca, 7231 East End av.]

THE QUESTION

Do you approve of girls going into cocktail lounges unescorted?

WHERE ASKED

The Republic building, 209 S. State st.

THE ANSWERS

Morton Fischel, shoe salesman, 6350 Wayne av.—I think that today, when men and women are supposed to have equal rights, it's all right for a woman to go into a cocktail lounge unescorted provided she doesn't become intoxicated. Who has the right to say it's wrong when it's within the law and a lady's choice?

Genevieve Walz, stenographer, 320 17th st., Wilmette—It seems to me that entering a cocktail lounge or tavern unescorted is an unlady-like thing to do. The minute a girl walks thru the door alone she is marked as being a pick-up. If you ask me, and you just did, I would say that I disapprove of it.

Bill Eifrig, student, 214 Gale av., River Forest—If a girl can't get a date without picking one up in a cocktail lounge, there's definitely something wrong with her personality. And if she can get a date she won't have to go into a cocktail lounge unescorted. I don't think much of a girl who does this sort of thing.

Esther Sachtleben, bookkeeper, 9 S. Chester st., Park Ridge—For myself I don't drink, therefore I would have no reason to go into a bar. I think people can drink sanely and if girls want to drink to a birthday or similar occasion that's all right. It depends upon the purpose in mind when they go into a bar unescorted.

D. R. Cierzan, assistant manager, 8740 Saginaw av.—The only reason I can think of for a girl not to go into a cocktail lounge alone is that some stranger, intoxicated or otherwise, will sit down with her. However, maybe that's why a girl goes into a lounge in the first place and that is certainly her own business.

Lloyd Davis, stock manager, 946 Ainslie st.—I think they have as much right to go unescorted as has a man without a girl. Girls and women certainly must get that "want to go out" feeling and they should be allowed to go into bars without some people thinking it's horrible. I don't disapprove in the least.

CUBS TAKE 2, LEAD BY 7½ GAMES; SOX SPLIT

PRIM, BOROWY BAFFLE GIANTS BY 3-1 AND 8-0

Two in 9th Decide First Game

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Aug. 19—The Cubs this afternoon soared to their greatest lead of the year by taking a double header from the Giants before 48,310 [41,567 paid] in the Polo Grounds while the Cardinals were being extended to salvage a split in their double header in Boston. The new champs won the first game behind Ray Prim, 3 to 1, then breezed to an 8 to 0 triumph behind Hank Borowy in the after show.

The day's business put the Cubs 7½ games ahead of the Cardinals. If they win for Hank Wyse against Van Mungo in the Polo Grounds tomorrow night they will tie their victory total of all last season, with 40 games to be played thereafter.

Ninth Victory for Prim

The first victory this afternoon was Prim's ninth and the Giants' one run of the afternoon, scored in the third inning, was on the tainted side, tho technically earned. Prim grew progressively better along with his hitting support in the first game. The Giants made eight hits in the first five innings while the Cubs were struggling futilely for a run. He yielded only one single in the last four innings, encouraged, perhaps by the nature of the Cub tie in the seventh inning. His reward came when the Cubs scored twice in the ninth.

Borowy's triumph was his fourth as a Cub in five starts. The Cubs were held to three hits in his one loss, 2 to 1, in Boston. The extent to which he was in command today was indicated by the fact the Giants made no runs on the same number, eight—the Cubs made in the course of producing their eight runs.

Keeps Giants' Hits Scattered

The first inning was the only one in which the New Yorkers made more than one hit. Hank walked only two batsmen.

The Cub hitting was not spectacular, but exceedingly timely.

Nothing bigger than a double was hit by either team in either game, and that's an oddity in the quaint Polo grounds.

The Giants got what turned out to be their only run of the day in the third inning of the first game. Johnson, unable to apply the brakes, overran a fly ball which Hausmann hit to short right field and it fell for a double. Hausmann scored on Ott's single to right. The Giants had men on first and third with none out in the fourth, but the Cubs' sharp defensive play kept them from scoring.

Nicholson Gets Freak Double

A freak double led to a Chicago run in the seventh. Nicholson, trying to get away from an inside pitch, accidentally struck the ball with his bat and it shot down the left field line for two bases. He scored as Merullo lined a single to left.

Merullo launched the Cubs' game winning rally in the ninth with his third single. Hack was given an intentional pass and Johnson walked, filling the bases. Lowrey's single to right scored Merullo, and Hack came home on Becker's infield tap.

Hack, who walked at the start of the fourth inning of the second game, was the first Cub to get on base. Johnson also walked and Stan and Don moved up on Lowrey's sacrifice. Pafko was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Hughes flied to Treadway, Hack scoring. Treadway threw past the plate, Johnson taking third and Pafko second on the error. Nicholson singled to center, scoring Johnson and Pafko.

Hughes Doubles in Sixth

Hack knocked a double, the second Cub hit, with one out in the fifth and scored on Johnson's single to left.

Hughes got the sixth inning under way with a double and scored on Nicholson's single.

Adams made his 52d appearance of the season as a reliever at the start of the eighth and walked Hughes and Nicholson. Livingston singled to center, scoring Hughes and putting Nicholson on third. Merullo forced Livingston, Nicholson scoring.

Hack singled to open the ninth inning, went to second on an erorr, to third on a sacrifice, and scored on Pafko's fly to Rucker.

Post-Vacation Blues

My head is throbbing from the din
Of street cars, cabs, and els,
My face is sullen, sad, and grim
And I have nauseous spells.
My lungs are filled with grime and dust,
My heart with maledictions

Meet working day conditions.
Scientists will e'er create
New things to help our nation.
Why can't those smart lads help us rate
A lengthier vacation?

DRILL WEARY ALL-STARS GET HALF HOLIDAY

Tex Warrington, Center, to Return

BY WILFRID SMITH
[PACKER CAMP NEWS ON NEXT PAGE]

The College All-Star football men were granted a well earned half holiday yesterday afternoon after a week in which 14 practice sessions were held. And as the players scattered to golf courses, beaches, and to Comiskey park, where the majority saw the White Sox-Yankees double header, they cheered the news that Tex Warrington, Auburn center, would rejoin the squad for the game with the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 30.

Warrington was called to New York last week by the serious illness of his wife. Yesterday he wired that her condition had improved so that he could return to Northwestern. He is expected today. Tex played at Auburn last season after discharge from military service and he is one of collegiate football's best centers. Prior to his service, Warrington was center on the William and Mary eleven which won the Southern conference title.

Bill Willis Joins All-Stars

The college squad also was reenforced yesterday by arrival of a quintet of stars that included Bill Willis, member of last year's All-Star group, a tackle on Ohio State's 1944 Western conference team. Willis will lend invaluable help against the Packers. Veteran of three years of competition for the Buckeyes, which also included Ohio State's 1942 championship in Willis' sophomore year, the rugged lineman is a match for any of the Packers' burly forwards.

The other newcomers are Lt. William Meek, University of Tennessee, blocking back; Lt. Russell Craft, a half back from Alabama; Lt. Cullen Rogers, quarter back from Texas A. & M., and Roman Bentz, tackle and guard from Tulane. Meek, Craft, and Rogers are stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. If Meek can catch up with his mates, who now have the complete offense for the game with Green Bay, he is practically certain to have a share in the battle with the pros. Good back field blockers always are welcome.

Made Two Sugar Bowl Appearances

Meek played three years at Tennessee [1940-1942] and made two appearances in New Orleans' Sugar bowl, the last on Jan. 1, 1943, when the Vols defeated Glenn Dobbs and Tulsa. He entered service in March, 1943. Meek is 25 years of age, weighs 195 pounds, and is 6 feet tall. His home is in Birmingham, Ala.

Craft also is 25 and was a half back on three of Frank Thomas' teams at Alabama. He was invited to join the 1943 All-Star squad, but entered the army a week before the players reported at Northwestern. Rogers was a quarter back on two Texas A. & M. teams before an accelerated program permitted graduation and a commission in the army. Rogers weighs 185 and is 24 years of age. His home is in Mart, Tex.

Bentz, 25 year old 230 pounder, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall, concluded three years of football at Tulane in 1942. His home is in Horicon, Wis., and he was a member of the All-Star squad last year.

Odell Challenges Payseur

Not all of the players were lured to Comiskey park to watch the Yankees and White Sox. Among those who preferred golf for an afternoon's recreation was Ed Shedlosky, Tulsa university half back. Howie Odell, Yale's youthful coach, who is assisting Bernie Bierman, also challenged Ted Payseur, Northwestern university's director of athletics and golf coach. They persuaded Ray Eliot of Illinois to join them, altho Ray was convinced he was overmatched.

The squad will resume double practices today. While the offense will continue to be a major subject, emphasis this week will be laid on development of defensive formations.

ALL-STARS WATCH WHITE SOX–SAFE AT HOME

The College All-Stars who will oppose the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 30 take afternoon off to watch the White Sox and Yankees in Comiskey park yesterday. The All-Star spectators included (left to right): Damon Tassos, Walter Schlinkman, Merle Gibson, Paul Yates, John Karmazin, Ed Allen Jr., Cullen Rogers, Russell Craft, Gordon Appleby, Sam Gray, Perry Moss, Carl Buda, Roman Bentz, Cecil Hankins, Paul Sizemore, Ralph Park, Billy Andrews, squad manager, and Ellis Jones. Hagg Nearly Loses to Unknown in 3,000 Meters

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gunder Hagg, Sweden's outstanding distance runner, today barely defeated the comparatively unknown Aake Durkfeldt in a 3,000 meter race at Kalskoga in central Sweden. Hagg, who holds the world record of 8:01.2 for the event, was timed in 8:33.3 today. Durkfeldt was two-tenths of second behind.

Bill Drescher, Yankee catcher, scoring on a squeeze bunt by Pitcher Ernie Bonham in the sixth inning of the first game of double header in Comiskey park yesterday. Catcher Mike Tresh of the Sox takes the throw as Umpire Hal Weafer calls the play. The Yankees won the first game, 4 to 2, but the Sox took the second, 2 to 0.

SHORT AN ARM, ALL-STAR GUARD LONG ON FIGHT

Ellis Jones, Tulsa university's one armed guard, who played 22 minutes against the Chicago Bears in the All-Star game last year, is convincing Head Coach Bernie Bierman and his assistants that he's capable of a lengthy performance against the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30.

Jones, 24, who is 6 feet tall and weighs 190 pounds, has shown remarkable speed, blocking, and tackling ability during workouts in Dyche stadium. Football was the only sport in which Jones participated while attending Tulsa, altho he ran the 100 yard dash as a trackman at Abilene [Tex.] High school.

Jones and Steve Enich, Marquette guard, will join the Boston Yanks of the National Football league after the All-Star game.

Martin Silovich, Marquette center who is making a spirited bid for the starting assignment against the Packers, will return to his job as estimating engineer for the Ampco Metal company in Milwaukee after the game. He plans to be married soon to Carolyn Velchek of Manitowoc, Wis. Silovich's home is in Waukegan.

Lt. Cliff Speegle, Oklahoma center, has been stationed at the Fort Worth, Tex., army air field, where he is a B-26 instructor. Speegle, who entered the army two and a half years ago, may return to coach at Capital High school in Oklahoma City after receiving his discharge.

Perry Moss, 19 year old Tulsa half back, says his biggest day in football was in 1942 when he led Tulsa Central High school to victory over Muskogee, Okla., by scoring twice and pitching three touchdown passes. He hopes to produce a similar performance against the Packers.

MILLER BEATS COLLINS IN PARKS TENNIS FINAL

Dan Miller of Columbus park yesterday won the public parks men's singles tennis title by defeating Dan Collins of Ogden park, 0-6, 6-3, 7-5 in Waveland park. They combined to win the men's doubles. The women's crown was won by Violet Kastl, Columbus park, who defeated Marian Hart, East End park, 6-2, 6-4.

Other champions crowned were: Junior boys', Harry Laser, Garfield park; junior girls', Tobia Greenberg, Eugene field; intermediate boys, Gene Buckowicke, McKinley park; intermediate girls, Lorraine Degeeter.

The training session will open tomorrow and continue until about Sept. 12. Coach Phil Handler, already at the camp, will open drills Tuesday.

Amateur Wins in Memphis; Nelson Is 4th

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 19 (AP)—Fred Haas, jr., 30 year old New Orleans amateur, won the Memphis open golf tournament today with a 270. He was 18 under par for the 72 holes.

Fred Haas Jr.

It was the first time an amateur had humbled the professional stars in a 72 hole open since Ken Black turned the trick at Vancouver, B. C., in 1936.

The victory halted the 11-tournament winning streak of Toledo's Byron Nelson, who staged a spectacular finish to tie for second money among the pros.

The big purse went to George Low, jr., of Clearwater, Fla., who finished with a 275 to lead the pros. Another amateur, Bob Cochran of St. Louis, tied Low, five strokes back of the leading Haas.

Then followed Nelson and his fairways partner, Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me., each with 276.

BAUMAN UPSETS SOL GOULD IN OPEN NET PLAY

SOUTH SIDERS LOSE, 4-2, THEN BEAT YANKS, 2-0

Grove Wins Mound Duel in 2d Game

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox gave the downtrodden Yankees a lift yesterday but didn't forget to do a little in their own behalf at the same time. The James Dykes boys relieved Joe McCarthy's six place artists of a nine game losing streak by succumbing, 4 to 2, in the front half of a double header, after which they revived before a 36,785 house and put together a 2 to 0 achievement behind the pitching of the recently erratic Orval Grove.

The first game was entrusted to the elbowing of Bill Dietrich but the Yanks, instead of spreading a light attack over the nine innings, let most of it go in two spots—the fifth and sixth. Six of their eight safeties were poured into those two sessions, the dividends being all their runs that permanently erased an early lead the Sox had built up against Ernie Bonham. The latter, however, surrendered only four hits in the last six innings.

Tresh Starts Scoring Splurge

The Grove performance—his 12th success of the year—was matched by Bill Zuber for seven innings but in the eighth the tall lad saw a runless three hitter turned into a six hitter and a trimming. This winning splurge was touched off when Mike Tresh singled but Grove wasn't of much assistance getting his battery mate to second. Grove wanted to bunt but settled for three strikes. Zuber tossed out Wally Moses but the spell broke when Kerby Farrell bounced a hit past George Stirnweiss, Tresh scoring. Then an extra run, and it was welcomed, blossomed from Farrell's steal of second and a single by Le Roy Schalk.

Altho just back from the merchant marine and hardly in trim for diamond activities, Charley Keller resumed peace time activity by taking up his old left field station in the second game. His hitting was limited to one single with nobody on base but there were three times when he could have done some damage. Grove fanned him with a man on base in the first. He fanned him again with a Yank on second base in the sixth. And in the ninth which Bud Metheny opened with a double, his third hit, Keller was subdued on a fly ball.

Sox Take One Run Lead

The Sox were frisky enough to open the first game with a run, the contributions thereto being a double by Moses and a single by John Dickshot. They made it 2 to 0 with two more hits off Bonham in the third, Moses also was mixed in this with a single and steal and Dickshot sent him home with his second single.

Dietrich's calm was suddenly ruffled when Oscar Grimes and Frank Crosetti opened the fifth with singles, putting runners on third and first. Bonham hit a fly on which Grimes scored and Crosetti took second, scoring the tying run when Stirnweiss singled. The latter stole second and scored on Herschel Martin's single.

FORECAST JOBS FOR ALL AFTER RECONVERSION

Backlog of Demand Cited by C.E.D.

BY THOMAS FURLONG

There will be a job for every employable person in the United States when the changeover to civilian production is complete, the Committee for Economic Development predicted yesterday.

Foreseeing a big increase in the production of goods over the prewar level, the committee estimated that there will be 53½ million jobs available in the first year of full civilian production. This will mean virtually full employment, the committee said.

The forecast is based on an extensive survey of manufacturing industries. Each industry was canvassed for its estimates of expected production in the early post-war period and from these estimates and projections for nonmanufacturing employment the committee's statisticians reached their forecast of overall employment.

Group Headed by MacGowan

Fifty of the country's leading market research men and specialists collaborated in preparing the report for C. E. D., a nonprofit business organization formed to foster business planning as a means of avoiding mass unemployment after the war.

Heading the group of 50 was T. G. MacGowan, market research director of Firestone Tire and Rubber company. Participating in the work were Fred E. Clark, Northwestern university professor of economics and marketing; C. T. Heusinkelvd, market specialist of Armour & Co., and A. M. Rode, director of European operations of International Harvester company.

The study was completed shortly before Japan's surrender. The conclusions set forth in the report were based on the assumption that the war would end in 1946 and that 1947 would be the first year of full civilian production. With the war ending sooner than anticipated by the authors their forecasts can be interpreted as suggesting achievement of full employment much sooner, probably next year.

Composite Forecast Made

The committee systematically canvassed every important manufacturing group in the United States, getting the best estimates of individual manufacturers of the total production that will be achieved in their industries. From this starting point the committee pieced together a composite forecast of the outlook for all manufacturing and then projected its data for other business.

By this method it arrived at an estimated production of 80½ billion dollars worth of goods in the first full year of civilian output. This is an increase of nearly 42 per cent over actual production of goods in 1939, the last "normal" pre-war year when output totaled 56¾ billion dollars. The production estimates for both years are expressed in terms of 1939 prices to give an accurate comparison of the volume of physical production, not merely changes resulting from a difference in the level of prices.

The make-up of the production for the two periods is summarized in the following table:

Value of Manufactures
[at 1939 prices: 000,000 omitted]

	1939	1947 [Est.]	Pct. Gain
Non-durable goods	$32,773	$44,458	35.7
Durable goods	22,907	34,426	50.3
Miscellaneous	1,163	1,630	40.2
Total	$56,843	$80,515	41.6

Production gains indicated in various industries ranged from a maximum of nearly 76 per cent for automobiles and auto equipment down to 22 per cent for leather and leather products. Industries are listed below in the order of their indicated production gains:

	% gain, '47 over '39
Auto and auto equipment	75.8
Transportation equipment [exc. autos]	74.3
Tobacco products	69.4
Chemical and allied products	58.2
Electrical machinery	56.2
Machinery [except electrical]	52.5
Furniture, finished lumber products	47.7
Rubber products	47.3
Nonferrous metals and their products	44.2
Stone, clay and glass products	43.2
Miscellaneous industries	40.2
Iron and steel and their products [except machinery]	37.3
Petroleum and coal products	36.2
Food and kindred products	33.6
Printing, publishing and allied	30.3
Paper and allied products	27.7
Textile and fibre products	27.2
Lumber and timber basic products	25.9
Apparel and other fabric products	24.4
Leather and leather products	22.3

At the indicated production level employment in all manufacturing will reach 13½ million persons, an increase of about one-third over the 1939 figure of slightly more than 10 million. Figuring manufacturing employment at roughly one-quarter of total employment, the committee foresaw total civilian employment at 53½ millions.

Full Use Seldom Reached

Altho manufacturing employment has never represented this large a proportion of total employment in other years, the committee thought this estimate was reasonable because of the pent up demand for manufactured goods. Also taken into consideration was the rising productivity of the individual worker, which, tho interrupted by the war, has been increasing steadily for many years.

In presenting its estimates the committee emphasized that the great challenge of American business after the war will be to sell the goods and services that the country is capable of producing and for which available labor exists. It recalled that substantially full employment has not existed in the United States, except in war time, since 1929. Furthermore, in the last pre-war normal year of 1939, nearly 9 million persons were unemployed.

The committee also emphasized that the promised high level of employment rests in part on production necessary to catch up on demand accumulated during the war and that this demand later will disappear.

If the country is successful in achieving the indicated production in the early years after the war it will be in a better position to meet the admittedly more serious economic problems that will come later, the committee asserted.

Many in Military Service

It explained that estimates of the size of the labor force in the early post-war period vary widely. After taking into account all factors the committee accepted the figure of 60 million, or about 6 million more than 1939. The committee also figured that 3½ million of the labor force would be in military service in the first year of full civilian production and that 2½ million would be temporarily without work while shifting from one job to another or otherwise unavoidably unemployed. The latter group was described as the permissible "labor float." With these premises the committee concluded that the available civilian jobs would total approximately 54 million, which corresponds closely to the estimated number of employable civilians.

BRITISH AWAIT MORE DETAILS ON LABOR PLAN

Uncertainty Delays Peace Toolup

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 19—Two days of parliamentary debate last week on the government's program to nationalize Britain industry left financial and industrial interests much in the dark as to their future. Observers said the Laborites' priority plans to reorganize the Bank of England and the coal mining industry, and provide effective planning of investments in new businesses, represent only a thin wedge.

They expressed apprehension that the uncertainty regarding nationalization of other industries may delay the much needed reëquipment for peace time production, owing to the reluctance of industrialists to spend money in new plants that may be taken over by the state.

Stock Prices Improve

Stock market opinion, however, appeared relieved that no sweeping changes are contemplated immediately. Railroads, iron, steel, and other industrial stocks showed improvement when the market resumed operations on Friday after the V-J day holidays. Bank of England stock lost 1½ points and other bank shares were inactive, despite the fact most financial writers contend nationalization will make little difference to operation of the bank.

The weekly Economist, leading financial journal, described the government program as moderate.

Expect Modified Plan

Contrary to many observers who expect the government to drastically revise plans for future operation of British air lines, the Economist suggested the Laborites may carry out with slight modification the coalition government's program.

This plan, originally drawn up by then Civil Aviation Minister Swinton, provides for a substantial measure of state ownership, the Economist said, and the "government may decide that half a socialist loaf is better than no civil aviation."

Laski Asks Common Money System for Western Europe

BY EINAR CHRISTIANSEN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 19—A common monetary system for democratic countries in western Europe was proposed by Prof. Harold Laski, British Labor party chairman, in an interview on his arrival here to attend the Danish Labor party congress.

"My idea is that England, France, Belgium, Holland, and Scandinavia, while maintaining their cultural and national independence, must establish a functional alliance aiming at a common solution of common problems, primarily a joint monetary system, as well as a joint transport system," Laski said.

Has No Peace Illusions

Laski emphasized that peace will depend on the coöperation of like minded nations. Coöperation between France and Spain is impossible, he said. Asked whether Labor has definitely finished with pacifism, Laski said, "We have no illusions left. The means of coercion are necessary to adhere to peace, and we fully realize the commitments contracted at San Francisco."

Asked whether the new government intends to carry on Churchill's foreign policy, Laski said, "Yes, with certain limitations. We are less interested in King Peter and monarchical Greece than in democratic Yugoslavia and Greece."

In regard to Russia, Laski said it must be possible to reach an understanding on nonintervention in each other's political affairs, but that such an agreement need not preclude friendship between Russia, Britain, and other countries.

It is too early to forecast whether a democratic government in Germany is possible, he said, "besides, I'm analytic, not a prophet."

Analyzes Laborite Victory

The British labor victory, Laski said, was due to the Conservatives' lack of a constructive policy. "It will be unwise if the upper house opposes the policy backed by the British people," Laski said. "In the first place, we propose to nationalize the Bank of England and the coal mines, but intend to carry on the five year plan, including nationalization of transport, iron and steel industry, and electric supply. Labor intends, by friendly means, to further socialism in coöperation with private enterprise, whose future depends on its readiness and ability to coöperate. We are optimistic and firmly resolved to create, not proclaim, socialism."

At a Labor conference this afternoon, Laski said:

"We do not underrate the difficulties, but we march, determined, to our goal: prevention of future wars and creation of a higher living standard in order to wipe out the inequalities between rich and poor."

IF EXEMPTIONS CHANGE

How soon must I notify my employer if there is a change in the number of withholding tax exemptions to which I am entitled?—O. L.

If the number of exemptions increases you may file a new certificate with your employer at any time. If it decreases for any of the following reasons a new certificate is required within 10 days:

1. Your wife, for whom you have claimed exemption, either dies, is divorced, or claims her own exemption on a separate certificate.

2. The support of a dependent for whom you claimed exemption is taken over by some one else, so that you no longer expect to provide more than half the support for the year.

3. You find that a claimed dependent will receive $500 or more income of his own during the year.

The death of a dependent—other than wife, who is not classified in the tax law as a "dependent"—does not affect the taxpayer's withholding until the next year. However, it would require the filing of a new exemption certificate by Dec. 1 of the year in which it occurs.
